Golda Meir to continue as Israeli premier

By ARTHUR MAX
JERUSALEM (AP) — Golda Meir has agreed to continue as Israel's premier after apparently quelling a revolt within her Labor party against her choices for a minority cabinet.

Mrs. Meir was to submit her cabinet lineup today to the party's central committee for a vote of confidence. Sources close to the party said the committee was virtually certain to give the 75-year-old premier the support she demanded.

Mrs. Meir angrily announced she was quitting and walked out of a party caucus Sunday night after supporters of Defense Minister Moshe Dayan criticized the cabinet she had put together. Dayan had refused to serve in the new government because a number of members of the party blamed him for Israel's lack of preparedness for the Arab attack last October.

Mrs. Meir's walkout brought a steady stream of Laborites to her home Monday, pleading that she reconsider. Looking weary but determined, she visited President Ephraim Katzir Monday night and told him she had changed her mind and expected to present her new cabinet to him on Wednesday.

Katzir then received opposition leader Menachem Begin of the right-wing Likud bloc, who said: "Mrs. Meir should have declared that she has failed." He said if Mrs. Meir does not present a new cabinet by Wednesday after two months of trying, Katzir should call for a broad coalition government including the Likud.

Mrs. Meir, whose party is still the largest in parliament with 51 of the 120 seats, opposes such a coalition because the Likud is opposed to the return of any of the Arab territories occupied in the 1967 war.

Mrs. Meir's new cabinet list contains six new men. One of them is Yitzhak Rabin, chief of staff during the 1967 war and then ambassador to the United States, who was named to replace Dayan as defense minister.

Arab embargo end seen

By BARRY SCHWEID
WASHINGTON (AP) — Complete removal of the oil embargo against the United States with supplies at pre-October-war levels is the optimistic expectation of authoritative sources in advance of next Sunday's meeting of Arab oil ministers in Libya.

Prices are likely to drop to about $7 a barrel from the current $11.65, it was learned as Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger returned from an eight-day trip to the Middle East and Europe.

Restoration of production, coupled with conservation measures taken during the recent squeeze, will bring about a plentiful supply of oil for Americans, according to estimates.

In Riyadh, Saudi Arabia, Sheikh Ahmed Zaki Yamani, Saudi Arabian oil minister and a key spokesman for the petroleum producing states of the Middle East, called for an end to the Arab oil embargo. The Wall Street Journal reported today, Yamani said the Arab cut-off of oil to the United States no longer served any useful purpose.

At the same time, U.S. officials are concerned that the political crisis in Israel could set back Kissinger's scheme for having Israel and Syria begin to negotiate through him in Washington a disengagement in the Golan Heights.

Israeli diplomatic and military representatives were due in about two weeks, to be followed within the next two weeks by a similar Syrian mission. But now, officials say, the plan could be derailed if Prime Minister Golda Meir's Labor party has to join forces with the opposition Likud to form a government.

Meanwhile, the president of the Balex Oil and Gas Corp. of Malakoff, Tex., said that his firm had a deal for 30 million barrels of Saudi Arabian oil. W. Page Ballard said the oil would be shipped each month for five years to the United States.

Ballard said he contracted for the oil through a bank in Malaysia and had no direct dealings with Saudi Arabia.

The price of oil before the Arab-Israeli war was about $3.01 a barrel. Since then, production has been cut about 25 per cent and an embargo imposed against the United States and the Netherlands for their support and friendship for the Jewish state.

U.S. experts consider $7 a barrel somewhat high, but they also are concerned that a lower price could discourage development of alternative sources of energy. Kissinger and his aides will say nothing publicly about the Tripoli meeting.

But Egypt, Saudi Arabia, Syria, Algeria and other Arab states are now understood to be united in wanting to have the embargo removed and full production resumed. Until now, there have been reports of a phased step-up of production once the embargo is lifted.

Long talks foil plot to kill Kissinger

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A long talk with President Hafez Assad of Syria in Damascus last week may have saved Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger from assassination, American officials said Monday night.

The three-hour talk, which lasted beyond the original schedule, caused Kissinger to cancel his planned visit to the 8th century Omayyad mosque, the officials said. They said they later learned that there was a plot to try to kill him on the way.

"They were out to kill him on the way to the mosque," one American in the traveling party said.

Instead of going to the Damascus airport directly he took off for Israel carrying concessions from Assad that helped break a deadlock and got the two countries talking on a military separation of troops in the Golan Heights.

American officials would give no more details of the alleged plot but the assumption was that it was by "Palestine guerrillas."

The officials did not learn of the plot until two days later when Kissinger landed in Damascus again on Friday night. They hastily canceled Kissinger's second plan to go to the mosque early Saturday morning.

The historic mosque, erected by Walid I of the Omayyad dynasty, was built on to an earlier Christian Church and temples going back to Greek times. John the Baptist's head is said to be buried there.

It lies at the end of the teeming Hamidiya souk, or market, a covered street with tiny shops and milling crowds where a car can scarcely pass. The souk could be a difficult security problem.

Reporters accompanying Kissinger stood in the winter sun before the mosque entrance for more than an hour Wednesday waiting for Kissinger to appear. Army troops, police and security men in civilian clothes were everywhere in the area, even on the high walls of the mosque.

When Kissinger's talk went beyond the scheduled time, he went to the airport. One reason could have been that he wanted to avoid an unscheduled meeting with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko who followed him last week to both Damascus and Cairo.

Bomb may have caused jet crash

By ELIAS ANTAR
PARIS (AP) — Additional evidence has come to light indicating an explosion may have caused the crash of the Turkish airliner in which 346 persons died just north of Paris Sunday. At least 17 of the victims were Americans.

Investigators searching the wooded crash site 23 miles north of Paris said they have not ruled out the possibility that a bomb may have gone off aboard the DC10 jetliner, causing the worst crash in aviation history.

But the experts cautioned that even if there was an explosion, it might have been caused by a mechanical malfunction and not a bomb.

Officials at Orly Airport said the plane was guarded while it was on the ground in Paris and the 216 passengers who boarded in the French capital were searched along with their hand luggage. But the French civil aviation department said there was no inspection of the plane's baggage hold because none was requested by the Turkish airline.

It was not known what security precautions had been taken in Istanbul, where the flight to Paris and London originated and where the 12 crewmen and 118 of the passengers boarded.

"It will be at least a week before we can say anything for sure," one investigator said.

There were no survivors from the crash.

Prosecution calls Vesco's bagman to testify today

NEW YORK (UPI) — The government was expected to bring on one of its biggest guns today, Harry L. Sears, as a witness in its attempt to send two former dominant figures in the Nixon administration to jail.

Sears, named in the indictment as one of two bagmen who delivered a secret $200,000 donation from financier Robert L. Vesco to be used in the 1972 Nixon campaign, has been called by the prosecution "the middle man" and "one of the central figures" in the case.

Former Attorney General John N. Mitchell, 60, and former Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans, 65, are accused of conspiracy, obstructing justice, and perjury in an alleged attempt to obstruct a federal investigation of Vesco, now a fugitive, in exchange for the gift.

Sears, a New Jersey attorney and Vesco associate, former State Senate Republican leader, and state chairman of the 1972 presidential campaign, was a co-defendant but his case was severed.

Assistant U.S. Attorney James W. Rayhill disclosed in his opening statement in U.S. District Court Friday that the government has promised Sears immunity.

Some stage-setting and backgrounding witnesses were expected to precede Sears to the stand.

Rayhill told the jury that Sears "was bought and paid for by Robert Vesco—he was in Vesco's pocket." He said Sears got $60,000 a year from Vesco, who also advanced him $35,000 to pay debts incurred in the 1969 gubernatorial primaries.

"We intend to call as witnesses people who were there," Rayhill told the eight men and four women jurors. "Some have committed crimes. But we weren't there and you weren't there. One of the central figures is co-defendant Harry Sears."

Sears and Laurence B. Richardson, then president of a Vesco company, are charged with delivering the $200,000.

PIN centers start third Hearst effort

By DONALD B. THACKREY
SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Volunteers from the Hearst-funded People in Need program today manned 11 free-food centers in the San Francisco Bay area for the third distribution of the ransom demanded by the terrorist Symbionese Liberation Army (SLA) for the release of kidnapped heiress Patricia Hearst, age 20.

The group has not been heard from since Feb. 21, 13 days ago. Since then the People in Need group has passed out some $500,000 worth of groceries to nearly 50,000 persons.

Hearst has pledged to give out $6 million in free food in his attempt to secure the release of his daughter, an art history student at the University of California. A total of $2 million was to come from his personal assets, with the rest from the Hearst Corp.

Hearst and his wife, Catherine, issued a public appeal during the weekend for the SLA to let them know their daughter's condition and the group's reaction to the food program.

Wilson lists new cabinet

By COLIN FROST
LONDON (AP) — Newly installed Prime Minister Harold Wilson named his Labor cabinet today and immediately began urgent talks to settle the national coal miners' strike.

Michael Foot, named as employment secretary, called in members of the miners union executive. He also had an appointment to meet the employers, the National Coal Board.

The coal strike, now in its fourth week, threatened to bring the country's economy to a halt as coal stocks approached crisis level. Most industry has been on a three-day work week since Dec. 31 to save fuel.

Foot, an intellectual left-winger and former journalist, sits in the House of Commons for the coal mining district of Ebbw Vale in South Wales.

The miners' executive met in special session this morning in anticipation of early talks to meet their pay claim. Wilson, who earlier made clear his first priority was to end the strike, had separate meetings arranged with leaders of both sides of industry, the bosses and union leaders.

Except for the surprise selection of Foot for the employment post most of Wilson's cabinet jobs went to men who served in the last Labor government. James Callaghan, former home secretary, was named foreign minister. Denis Healey, who served Wilson before as defense secretary, became chancellor of the exchequer.

Wilson, prime minister from 1964 until 1970, returned to No. 10 Downing St. Monday night to head a minority government after Prime Minister Edward Heath, the Conservative party chief, conceded that he could not form a coalition government following his election defeat last Thursday.

Wilson's Laborites in the general election came in first with 301 seats in the 635-seat House of Commons, five more than the Conservatives but 17 short of a majority. But instead of trying to put together a majority coalition, Wilson plans to run a minority government that will remain in office only so long as it is not defeated on a major issue in Commons.

Judge Sirica schedules hearing on report

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG
WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge will listen to arguments in open court Wednesday before deciding what to do with the secret Watergate report given to him by a federal grand jury.

After meeting with attorneys in his office for more than an hour, U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica scheduled a hearing for 10 a.m. Wednesday and said that "all interested parties may state their views regarding the disposition of the report and recommendation filed last Friday by the June 1972 grand jury."

Sirica's office refused to say who had asked for the hearing.

Participants in the meeting included James D. St. Clair and Richard Hauser from the White House; Henry S. Ruth, deputy special prosecutor, and Philip A. Lacovara, Richard Bon-Vaniste and Peter Kreindler of the prosecutor's office, and John J. Wilson and Frank Strickler, attorneys for H.R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman.

The surprise announcement raised the possibility that the White House planned to oppose release of the report and possibly its transmission to the House impeachment inquiry.

Sirica had ordered all parties not to discuss either the report or the indictments returned by the grand jury Friday. But sources said the report contained the grand jury's findings on the role of President Nixon in Watergate.

White House deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren said, "Our position will be made known in open court. I have nothing further to say at this time."

Warren's statement came only a few hours after he told newsmen "there is no present intention" on the part of the White House to ask that the report be withheld from the impeachment inquiry.

Warren said St. Clair, the President's chief Watergate lawyer, had asked for the meeting. He said he was unaware when he made his earlier statement that St. Clair planned to meet with Sirica.

Participation of Wilson and Strickler in the meeting indicated the prime concern may have been public release of the report. As defense counsel for two of the men indicted Friday, they would be concerned that release of the report could prejudice the case against the former White House aides.

Haldeman and Ehrlichman were charged with conspiracy, obstruction of justice and perjury stemming from an alleged effort to block the investigation of the Watergate break-in. Five other Nixon associates also were indicted.

Monday, Haldeman called a news conference on the front lawn of his Los Angeles home and predicted he would be exonerated of the conspiracy, obstruction of justice and perjury charges against him.

In a related development, the prosecutor's office asked the U.S. Court of Appeals to deny Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt's request for reversal of his conviction in the original Watergate break-in case.

Also Monday, Chairman Peter W. Rodino, D-N.J., of the House Judiciary Committee said the committee was pondering its next step if the White House refused to turn over material requested for its impeachment inquiry.

Old age is state of mind

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the sixth in a series of articles on retirement living.)

By JACK GOURLAY

Old age is a state of mind. It is largely determined by how you feel about yourself at any point in time. Many of our problems are caused by ourselves. We may refuse to acknowledge that the years are adding up until, suddenly, we are brought up short — reality hits home. We may become frightened, perhaps even panicky. Add to that such worries as a substantial loss of income, a possible loss of a loved one, the growing away of the children, and declining health.

All these happen sooner or later to each of us. The person with a good mental attitude is able to shake them off. He soon recovers, confident in the knowledge that we are all a mixture of good and bad, and knowing that one's well-being depends largely on how one enlarges the good within and controls the bad.

Ideally, emotional depression can be guarded against by attuning oneself to the realities of life after 65 long before one reaches that age.

It means coming to grips with the life process. Unless you are willing to do that, you will not enjoy life after 65 to its fullest. A proper mental attitude is just as important as good physical health. They go together, each dependent on the other. Begin today, if you haven't already, to face your problems and deal with them maturely and constructively. You'll be pleasantly surprised to find how enjoyable life can be — at any age — if you clear away the dark clouds of vague misconceptions and fears.

Misfortune, disappointments or disillusionment

Ruptured Men Get $6.95 Gift for Trying This

Kansas City, Mo.—Here is an improved means of holding rupture that has benefited thousands of ruptured men and women in the last year.

Inconspicuous, without leg straps, elastic belts, body encircling springs or harsh pads, it has caused many to say, "I don't see how it holds so easy. I would not have believed, had I not tried it."

So comfortable — so easy to wear — it could show you the way to joyous freedom from your rupture trouble.

You can't lose by trying. It is sent to you on 30 days trial. You receive a separate $6.95 truss as a gift just for trying the invention.

Write for descriptive circular. It's free. Just address Physicians Appliance Company, 2221 Koch Bldg., 515 W. 75th St., Kansas City, Mo. 64114.

But do it today before you lose the address.

may occur at any age. Fortunately, as we mature, we develop inner resources which help us cope with them. Emotions and tensions — as long as they are under control — are positive forces. They give life meaning. They supply the fuel for our hopes and desires and, under control, they will not undermine otherwise good health.

Unfortunately, too many of us scoff at the idea of trying to control the emotions of a person who has lived with them out in the open for 40, 50 or 60 years. For those who think this way, there are always tranquilizers, but dependence on such medicated pacifiers is not the real solution. We try to control and manage our physical health, why not our emotional health?

We all face problems. We all feel dissatisfaction with the way things go from time to time. The key lies in how we tackle the problems, and whether or not we accept those caused by ourselves or try to blame them on others.

Certain problems become more important as we grow older. These are brought about by changes which can be a source of worry, insecurity, a fear that life will never be the same again.

There are changes in our physical being. Changes in our adult roles. Man's work makes him feel useful.

He has the respect of colleagues for a job well done. A woman feels useful in raising her family and maintaining her home. But eventually the man retires and the mother's children grow up and leave home. Man and woman feel unwanted, useless.

There are changes in living arrangements. Many may find it necessary to give up their home altogether. This often means giving up independence and privacy and giving up familiar things and surroundings. This is one of the more difficult aspects of growing old.

Each of these changes is a difficult one to face. Yet, most older people are able to cope with them because they've developed the inner resources ahead of time.

Guidelines for developing a positive mental attitude on retirement:

1. Face reality. Accept the facts of life, make the best of them.

2. Take responsibility. Accept help when needed, but try to solve your own problems.

3. Maintain an interest in others. Don't withdraw from life.

4. Develop strong and varied interests. Share activities with others.

5. Keep up with the world around you.

6. Live in the present and look to the future, not to the past.

7. Maintain good health. Don't dwell on your aches and pains.

8. Stay neat in your appearance and keep your home in good order.

9. Relax and don't take life too seriously.

10. Adapt to change in your ideas and ways when the situation requires it.

Achieving a positive mental outlook in retirement is much the same as achieving the proper attitude in any other period of your life. At first, you may experience feelings of helplessness, uselessness, and doubts about your future. But these feelings will soon give way to a better frame of mind if you are prepared to see things as they are and reshape your life in ways that will ensure a healthy, useful and satisfying retirement.

Indebtedness of governments in Wisconsin rises

MADISON (UPI) — Total indebtedness of Wisconsin counties, municipalities, school districts and vocational education districts increased 3.5 per cent between fiscal 1971 and 1972 to $1.7 billion, a state official said.

Walter F. McCanna, administrator of the Revenue Department's division of state and local finance, said that increase was significantly less than the 6.7 per cent rise between 1970 and 1971. He said the reason may be that some municipalities refrained from borrowing in anticipation of federal revenue sharing.

As Watergate indicators

Californians, Ohioans going to polls today

By JOHN MILNE
United Press International

No matter what the voters of Ohio and California are thinking today as they cast ballots in special congressional elections, their decisions will almost certainly be regarded as expressions of opinion on President Nixon and Watergate.

Democratic victories — especially in Ohio, where Watergate has been a campaign issue and nationally known politicians have stumped for both sides — will be regarded by politicians as a message that support of President Nixon will be a liability in November's congressional elections and perhaps even in an impeachment showdown.

If the GOP candidates hold these two traditionally Republican districts, Nixon's landslide re-election victory will probably be again called the "Mandate of '72" and Watergate may be downgraded as a political issue.

Special congressional elections usually attract slight attention. Relatively large turnouts are expected by officials in both states today because these are part of five special elections this spring which represent the first opportunity for voters to express themselves since the break-in and bugging at Democratic National headquarters burst into a full-blown scandal.

Democrat John Murtha won a Pennsylvania election in February where Watergate was not prominent in campaigning. In Michigan, however, Democrat Richard Van

Vice President Gerald R. Ford's old seat in a campaign filled with Watergate debate. Another Michigan election will be held next month.

In Ohio's 1st District, Democrat Tom Luken has used the Watergate issue in his campaign, and Nixon Republican Willis Gradison says repeatedly that he "deplores" Nixon's handling of the scandal but has supported many administration policies.

More than half the 212,000 registered voters in Ohio are expected to go to the polls.

In California's 13th District, State Sen. Robert J. Lagomarsino, a conservative, faces seven Democrats. A candidate winning more than 50 per cent of the votes will be declared the winner with a runoff scheduled for April 2 if no one gets a majority.

Lagomarsino says administration scandals will have no effect on the race, but his front-running Democratic opponent, James Loebl, says "the basic issue is Richard Nixon."

CDP application for Hillview Manor OKed

By SUSAN LOTH
Daily News Staff Writer

The Winona City Council Monday overturned a Board of Adjustment decision and approved a Community Development Project (CDP) application for Hillview Manor on the city's west end following public hearing.

But construction on the controversial proposed 60-apartment complex won't begin until a court battle over area zoning is resolved, according to developers Russell Royce, David Pelinski and Eugene Wicks.

MR. AND MRS. Richard Pilgrim, 435 Ronald Ave., filed declaratory judgment action against the city in district court last week. They are protesting the council's denial of a neighborhood petition last month.

THAT PETITION sought R-1 single-family residential zoning for land between Kerry Drive and Highway 14. The R-3 district includes the Hillview Manor property and lots owned by the Pilgrims and by David Forsythe, 451 Kerry Dr.

Councilmen approved the CDP (also known as a planned unit development or PUD) on condition that the developers follow recommendations of the city planning commission for fencing, screening and single overall color scheme; that they build a sidewalk near Kerry Drive rather than west of the complex; that construction proceed in clusters of three or four buildings (13 in all are planned); and that developers meet with Forsythe and the planning commission to resolve design differences at the north end of the complex abutting Forsythe's property.

COUNCILMEN WHO wanted to put a time limit on construction — in writing — were advised by City Attorney George Robertson Jr. that the limit probably would be illegal.

Attorney for developers Michael Price said the Hillview Manor project met or exceeded CDP requirements. The Board of Adjustment decision on the project appears to have been determined by the project's proximity to R-1 development — an arbitrary move, he argued, since the city has permitted apartment development near R-1 property elsewhere in Winona. He asked the council to require that the board make findings of fact when it fails to approve any projects.

Actually, the Board of Adjustment "action" was an inaction, said board secretary Gerald Regan. Because the five-person group split 3-2, it couldn't muster the four votes needed to affirmatively approve or deny the CDP.

Charter examination delays redistricting

Redistricting of the city's wards and precincts will stop until the City Charter Commission can reexamine the charter's provisions, the city council decided Monday.

What began as a routine redistricting matter handled by the office of City Clerk John Carter took on interest when councilmen discovered it could put two of them out of their districts.

THIRD WARD Councilman Raymond Ruppert would become part of the 4th Ward and large Councilman Stephen Delano (1st, 2nd) would become part of the 3rd, if redistricting continues according to the plan begun two weeks ago, Carter reported.

Although Delano was elected by the city as a whole, the charter requires that he reside in the 1st or 2nd wards. Carter asked that the charter commission reexamine those charter regulations as well.

Even if ousted from their districts, the two council members could serve out their terms. Ruppert's runs through December 1975 and Delano's through 1977.

THE CHARTER dictates that redistricting be ordered whenever the number of registered voters in one precinct exceeds another by 15 percent.

Yet state and federal law use total population as a redistricting guide, noted Delano. "The Supreme Court (in April 1968) said one man, one vote ... it didn't say anything about registered voters," he said.

It's "possible that the charter, presented to the council in March 1968 is unconstitutional if not merely outdated."

New state law that permits election day registration at the polls is another matter "the charter doesn't consider," councilmen said.

Board approves funds to tie in library service

The Winona County Board of Commissioners agreed this morning to give the city of St. Charles $10,550 to tie countywide free library services into that city's public library.

If the St. Charles City Council accepts the county proposal and the Winona City Council accepts the $27,000 offered it last week, the county will spend $37,550 this year to give free library services to rural residents.

The St. Charles council had asked for $19,500 for 1974, which Alderman Melvin Brownell told the county board in a letter today would be one-third of that city's annual library expenses.

The county board last summer allocated $95,000 in federal revenue-sharing funds to provide free countywide library services. Remaining funds will be reallocated.

Commissioners were a little critical of the size of St. Charles' request, calling it unrealistic.

"We're going to try and help both places (Winona and St. Charles) out — I'm willing to do this," said County Board Chairman Len Merchlewitz, "but I don't think they should take advantage of the board."

Board members agreed to instruct County Attorney Julius E. Gernes to meet with city attorneys from both cities to draft contracts under which library services will be provided to any county resident, and commissioners agreed it should be spelled out in both contracts that 1975 budget requests from the two cities include details on how much use rural residents make of the libraries.

Use of the two public libraries by rural residents won't begin until contracts have been signed by both city councils and the county board.

At Winona County Courthouse

Remodeling stalled by shortages

By STEVEN P. JOHNSON
Daily News Staff Writer

Material shortages have delayed the Winona County Courthouse remodeling project, which won't be completed in April as originally hoped.

John Rova of Rorty, Elving and Associates, the Minneapolis architects for the $2 million remodeling job, told the county board of commissioners Monday afternoon delays in window shipments have held up the project.

"It looks like the end of May, at least, at this point," Rova said, and "it could be a little bit longer" before county offices can return to the 84-year-old courthouse.

New windows have been installed on the first two floors, Rova said, but added windows for the historic building's upper three floors have not yet been shipped by the Texas manufacturer.

Materials shortages have bothered the project throughout, but Rova said "the windows are the one thing that is holding us back at this point."

Parental reaction asked on WSHS open noon hour

By C. GORDON HOLTE
Daily News Staff Writer

Parental reaction to a proposal that open noon hours be instituted at Winona Senior High School was solicited by the School Board of Winona Independent District 861 Monday night.

Earlier this winter, high school student representatives had requested board approval of an open lunch hour which would permit students to leave the school grounds during their half-hour lunch period.

AT THAT time, board members had certain reservations about the policy and also were concerned about its implications as far as the energy crisis was concerned since a number of students probably would be driving their cars to various places during the noon recess.

Superintendent of Schools C. H. Hopf recalled Monday night that a decision — in which student representatives concurred — had been made to delay action on the proposal until the March board meeting.

Noting that a decision on the proposal probably should be made at next Monday night's regular board meeting, Dr. Hopf said, "I'd like to see some parent input on this. I'd like to see how the parents feel about it."

He said he'd discussed the proposal with Senior High School Principal Wallace Hitt.

THE PRINCIPAL had suggested, Dr. Hopf said, that if approval is voted, a trial period begin March 25.

That would allow the administration two weeks, he said, to "lay out the ground rules and determine how they'll be implemented."

Board members earlier had expressed concern about traffic problems that might result from the students leaving the school during their lunch break.

"The half-hour lunch periods are staggered," Dr. Hopf explained. "That means that at 11:30 a.m., perhaps 450 or 500 students might leave the grounds and would return at noon with another 500 leaving, then and another 500 at 12:30."

Board awaits solons' handling of DST issue

Possible developments in the state legislature concerned with daylight savings time will be awaited by the School Board of Winona Independent District 861 before consideration is given to any changes in class scheduling for the 1974-75 school year.

The board has received a number of complaints from parents who were concerned with the safety of children required to walk to school in the dark during the winter months.

The issue arose again Monday night when directors were presented a proposed school calendar for the next school year.

Norman J. Decker, 1st District director, asked Superintendent of Schools C. H. Hopf, if he had presented the proposed calendar, whether any provisions had been made for winter periods of daylight savings time.

Dr. Hopf noted that the next year's calendar provides for a Christmas vacation extending from Dec. 20 to Jan. 6 — while still retaining a 181-day school year — the first time in several years that a Christmas recess of more than two weeks has been scheduled.

As far as daily scheduling is concerned, Dr. Hopf said, "We think we want to wait and see what the legislature does on proposed bills on daylight savings time."

DR. HOPF observed that "there's been a lot of static out of Edina about this. They plan on revising their schedules if the legislature does nothing and are urging other districts to modify theirs, too."

Region 10 to get grant for planning

The Region 10 Developmental Disabilities Planning Council has been awarded a $25,000 grant to plan for housing for the disabled.

The grant is for planning to provide guidelines for development of alternatives to institutionalization for the developmentally disabled — mentally retarded, cerebral palsied and epileptic — in Southeastern Minnesota.

All city skating rinks now closed

The recent period of thaw has prompted the closing of all of the city's ice skating rinks. Robert Welch, director of parks and recreation, has announced.

Welch said the Lake Park rink was closed Monday.

The other rinks had been closed previously.

Edina, also, was adopting a "wait-and-see" attitude, looking for possible legislative action, Dr. Hopf said.

Dr. C. W. Rogers, director at large, recalled that a number of parents had asked for a half-hour delay in the starting time for schools during the winter months and asked whether such a change "would make much of a difference."

Dr. Hopf replied that some parents felt it would and Dr. Rogers replied, "but, still some children are going to be going to school in the dark."

THE superintendent agreed, pointing out that some students in rural areas board buses at 6:55 a.m.

There was agreement that a half-hour delay might be advantageous for children in the city who walk to school.

Mrs. Sharon Hull, 2nd District director, asked whether any instruction is given in the schools in the areas of bus and traffic safety.

Dr. Hopf said that this year school principals supervised bus evacuation drills which, formerly, had been directed by bus operators.

E. W. Mueller, assistant superintendent for elementary education, said that the elementary school health curriculum contains a segment on safety and that a special committee has been established to make available materials on safety.

Plainview volunteers put out tractor fire

PLAINVIEW, Minn. (Special) — The Plainview volunteer fire department was called to the Edwin Graner farm about 4:45 p.m. Monday to extinguish a tractor fire. The farm is located about four miles northeast of Plainview.

Graner said that while he was installing a battery cable a spark flew and ignited gasoline in the tank. He escaped injury.

There was an estimated $200 damage to the tractor.

SEMAPO schedules workshop in Winona

WABASHA, Minn. — The Southeastern Minnesota Area-wide Planning Organization (SEMAPO) will sponsor a planning and zoning workshop here March 30.

Geared toward public officials, city council members and planning commission members, the workshop is jointly sponsored by SEMAPO and St. John's University, Collegeville, Minn.

It is open to anyone in the SEMAPO five-county area: Winona, Wabasha, Goodhue, Houston and Fillmore counties.

The daylong workshop will be in SEMAPO offices here.

Shelter found for fire victims

RUSHFORD, Minn. (Special) — Mr. and Mrs. Glenn McDonald and their two children have found housing here after their two-story, wood frame home was extensively damaged by fire Monday morning.

Mrs. L. J. Wilson, Rushford, American Red Cross disaster representative, has found temporary living quarters for the family at the Elvin Humble farm home.

The Rushford volunteer fire department was called to the McDonald home, at the corner of Elm and West North Street, one block off Highway 43, about 8:10 a.m.

The upstairs of the home was completely burned out and there was extensive smoke and water damage in the downstairs rooms. It was believed the fire might have started in the wiring in the attic of the home.

Firefighters remained on the scene for about three hours. The loss is partially covered by insurance.

Three area residents elected to camp board

SPRING GROVE, Minn. (Special) — Three area residents were elected to three-year terms on the Camp Winnebago Board of Directors. They are: Kenneth Seebold, Winona; Robert Lobert, La Crescent, Minn.; and Mrs. George Griffith, Caledonia, Minn.

Re-elected to serve second terms were Roger Sikkink, Harmony, Minn.; Martin Deters, Caledonia, and Arnold Erickson, Harmony.

Board reviews co-op's plans

Planning for the organization of the Hiawatha Valley Special Education Cooperative for the 1974-75 school year was reviewed for the School Board of Winona Independent District 861 Monday night.

Personnel in the cooperative work with students with physical handicaps, learning and behavior problems, and cases of mental retardation in an area that includes Winona and Olmsted counties.

Dr. C. H. Hopf, superintendent of schools, noted that he and Richard Burkhardt, director of special education for the district and of the cooperative, felt past difficulties had been encountered because it wasn't known until late summer how many school districts would participate in the cooperative.

THIS YEAR Burkhardt has contacted area schools and asked them to submit letters of intent by the end of March.

This, Dr. Hopf said, will allow the administration to be in a better position for early planning and to determine financial matters.

Last year 12 districts participated in the cooperative. They included Winona, Caledonia, Dover-Eyota, Elgin Millville, La Crescent, Lake City, and Wabasha.

The charge arose from an accident at 2:21 a.m. Jan. 19 in the 1300 block of West Broadway during which police allegedly discovered a police band monitor connected to the Fryseth car.

Under the plea bargain, Fryseth will forfeit the $300 bail he had posted and reimburse the city $810.52 for damage incurred in the accident to a fire hydrant, curb and a boulevard.

Fryseth was given eight months in which to reimburse the city. If he does not, a 20-day jail sentence will be imposed.

Registrations now are being accepted for attendance at the 1974 season of the Winona YMCA's Camp Olson, near Longville, Minn., Forest Arnold, YMCA program director, has announced.

Girls' camping will extend from June 9 to July 12 and will be followed by three boys' sessions from July 14 to Aug. 10.

Dates for the girls' camp this year are: I — June 9-12, II — June 13-16, and III — June 17-20. They are followed by the boys' camps: I — July 12-15, II — July 16-19, III — July 20-23, and IV — July 24-27.

Last year, 650 boys and girls attended the resident camp on Little Boy Lake. They were part of nearly three-quarter million resident campers in 1973 — almost double the number attending in 1963 across the nation.

Camp Olson offers such programs as canoe trips, horseback riding, sailing, fishing, swimming, riflery, archery and art and crafts.

If past years are any criteria, Arnold said, a number of sessions will fill to capacity before school is out in June. Those interested are urged to enroll as soon as possible. For information

Of evidence for inquiry

House group considers denial

By JOHN BECKLER
WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Judiciary Committee, still hoping to hear from the White House on its request for evidence for its impeachment inquiry, is meeting to decide what to do in case the request is denied.

The committee asked the White House last Monday for tapes, logs and other documents that its special counsel, John Doar, said could be delivered to Capitol Hill in a day or two.

But by Monday night the material still had not been turned over, raising the possibility that the committee may decide today to use its subpoena power.

"That definitely will come up," said Rep. Robert F. Drinan, D-Mass. "It will be one of the first questions asked if we still haven't heard from the White House."

The committee also will consider U.S. District Judge John

J. Sirica's announcement of a hearing to determine whether he should give a secret report to a Watergate grand jury to the Judiciary Committee.

The report is believed to contain the jury's findings on President Nixon's possible involvement in the Watergate cover-up, but the official committee view is that it doesn't know what's in the report so it isn't sure it wants the document.

However, individual members are more definite about wanting the material in the envelope and the briefcase full of evidence that apparently supports it, which Sirica also is holding.

"Absolutely, we should have it," said Rep. Robert McClory, R-Ill. "The grand jury said it wants the information to go to us so I don't see what Judge Sirica has to say about it."

"There is no question the material should be turned over to us for our consideration," said Rep. William S. Cohen, R-Maine.

One of the committee Republicans, Tom Railsback of Illinois, sent Nixon a letter Monday urging him to comply with the request for White House information.

"The Judiciary Committee, from my observations, is making a valid effort to conduct a fair and thorough inquiry which will hopefully resolve this serious controversy once and for all," he told Nixon.

He asked the President to put aside any constitutional or legal questions that may arise from the committee's request and to cooperate fully.

Ervin predicts —

Privacy restrictions to be set on criminal data

By LAWRENCE L. KNOTSON
WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress will act this year to place privacy restrictions on the rapidly growing criminal data banks used by many states and the FBI, Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., predicts.

Massachusetts Gov. Francis Sargent was to be the leadoff witness today at the opening of six days of hearings into privacy legislation introduced by Ervin and endorsed by the Nixon administration.

Sargent's state has refused to take part in the national computerized criminal data bank system run by the FBI, principally because of its state laws protecting the release of such information as arrest and conviction records and criminal histories.

Ervin, chairman of the Senate Judiciary subcommittee on constitutional rights, has praised the President's recent endorsement of legal restrictions on the data bank system and called on him to urge Congress to enact those limits "at the earliest possible date."

Both the Ervin bill and the administration legislation, sponsored by Sen. Roman Hruska, R-Nebr., call for sealing certain records after a period of time and forbidding their further dissemination.

The major difference between the two bills is the way in which they would be administered.

The administration proposal calls for the federal system to be controlled solely by the attorney general. The Ervin bill would create a board to give a role to state representatives.

The Ervin bill also would prevent the inclusion in the computer system of arrest records which never resulted in a prosecution.

The administration bill is silent on that subject.

The Ervin bill also would prevent records of convictions to be shown private employers. The administration bill would allow arrest records to be examined also.

Both bills seal records of felony convictions seven years after the convict is released from prison, parole or probation.

In misdemeanor cases, the records would be sealed five years after a prisoner's final release from custody.

But the files would remain open if an ex-convict is re-arrested before the five-year or seven-year deadline.

-Is Brandt losing grip on W. German politics?

BONN, Germany (AP) — A stunning setback for Chancellor Willy Brandt in a key state election has added new fuel to talk that he is losing his grip on West Germany's political life.

The Nobel Peace laureate who gave his country a new standing in world affairs by promoting East-West understanding admitted a "severe setback" after his Social Democratic party lost its majority in the Hamburg city-state legislature last weekend.

Only two weeks after Brandt was forced to deny publicly that domestic policy worries have caused him to consider resigning, his declining popularity was demonstrated by his party's massive 20 per cent slide in the Hamburg election.

The Social Democrats managed to cling to power in Hamburg only with the help of the small Free Democrats, the liberal party which has shared a ruling coalition with Brandt's men in the federal government since 1969.

The Social Democrats lost 14 of their 70 seats in the 120-seat legislature. The Free Democrats gained four for a total of 13, and the big winners were the conservative Christian Democrats, who gained 10 and now have 51, less than the ruling coalition.

The Hamburg voting was the first state election since the socialist-liberal coalition won a sweeping victory in the 1972 federal elections, mainly on the strength of Brandt's foreign policy triumphs. But since then, the gloss has worn off his East-West peace drive.

State elections will also be held this year in Lower Saxony, where the Social Democrats rule in coalition with the Christian Democrats, and Hesse, where there is a Social Democrat-Free Democrat government. A Christian Democrat takeover in either would increase their 21-20 voting edge in the Bundestag, the upper house of the federal parliament.

Lutheran teachers to meet here Friday

About 65 Lutheran educators are expected to attend the Southeastern Minnesota Lutheran Teachers Conference Friday at St. Martin's School.

St. Martin's Principal Robert Wolf said there will be no classes on the conference day, which will also feature a half-day environmental education workshop for teachers.

Registration for the conference will begin at 8:30 a.m. and the Rev. A. U. Deye, pastor, and the Rev. Kenneth Krueger, assistant pastor, will welcome delegates at an opening service at 9 a.m.

THE ENVIRONMENTAL education workshop, a mini-unit program with teacher participation sponsored by the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources (DNR), will begin at 9:30 a.m. and continue until a noon lunch. Committee meetings will be in progress from 12:30 to 1 p.m. and the Rev. Franklin Hoffman, pastor of Bethlehem Church, Morristown, Minn., will address the group on "I Believe in the Forgiveness of Sins" at 1 p.m.

The district report will be presented by Dr. Raymond Maag, assistant to the president for parish education of the Minnesota South District of the Lutheran Church, Missouri Synod, at 2 p.m.

After a business meeting at 2:30 p.m. there will be closing devotions by the Rev. William Flesch, pastor of Redeemer Lutheran Church here.

During the environmental workshop, mini-units will be presented on fire and values, insulation, color in nature and other topics.

CONDUCTING the workshop will be Howard Munson, professor of education at Winona State College; Gary Matson, principal of Minnesota City and Rollingstone schools, and Miss Marty Roberson, director of the Science-Mathematics Teaching Resource Center at Winona State.

Dr. Munson recently received a Blue Flame Ecology Salute in recognition of his work in environmental education.

Matson last month was appointed by Gov. Wendell Anderson to the Region 10 Environmental Education Council and represents that group on the Minnesota Environmental Education Council.

Schools expected to be represented at the conference are Austin Central, Faribault Peace, Janesville Trinity, Lewiston Immanuel, Morristown Trinity, Plainview Immanuel, Red Wing Concordia-Immanuel, Rochester Central, St. Martin's, Wykoff St. John, Dodge Center Grace and Medford Trinity.

Curtis Hagan, principal of Faribault Trinity, is chairman of the conference and will preside at the meeting.

Howard Bunge, principal of Morristown Trinity, is program chairman and Valjean Beck, Plainview Immanuel, is conference secretary.

Driving gas may fall 25% short

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Gasoline available to motorists will fall between 25 and 35 per cent short of demand this summer, an executive vice president of Standard Oil Co. of Indiana predicted Monday.

Blaine Yarrington, in Minneapolis to speak at today's Farm Forum, told a news conference there was "no question that we'll provide farmers with 100 per cent of their requirements."

"Agriculture gets its supply off the top," said Yarrington, "and then come other priority customers, with the motorist on the bottom with the least priority."

Yarrington said he believes the price of gasoline will not rise above 75 cents a gallon this summer.

The oil company executive said he agrees with President Nixon that the country should not have rationing, but there should be a standby plan.

"I don't believe the federal energy office could execute a coupon rationing plan before the spring of 1975," he said.

Police tentatively identify victim of hit-run mishap

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Minneapolis police have tentatively identified the apparent victim of a hit-run motorist as Henry Tatum, 53, no known address.

His body was found about 8:15 p.m. Sunday near the Cedar-Hiawatha Avenues underpass near Franklin Ave.

Police said Tatum's hat was found 150 feet away from his body and personal effects were scattered between his hat and the spot where the body was found by a taxicab driver, indicating the victim had been knocked or carried on the front of the hit-run car for much of that distance.

Investigators say they have no clues to the identity of the hit-run driver.

County board roundup

Highway employees seek arbitration

The Winona County Board of Commissioners Monday filed — almost without comment — a letter asking binding arbitration to settle the county's labor dispute with union employees in the highway department.

The board filed the letter from Winona County Highway Association (WCHA) negotiator Robert D. Langford asking commissioners to join the union in requesting arbitration.

"It now appears that further negotiation and mediation will not be successful," Langford wrote, citing several contract proposal disagreements that prompted WCHA members to vote 17-2 against a county contract offer a month ago.

Commissioners indicated they will consider joining Langford in requesting arbitration only if the county's negotiator, Peter Obermeyer, Excelsior, Minn., suggests it.

Suburban zoning, subdivision woes will be discussed

The next time the county board and the Winona City Council have a joint meeting, county commissioners agreed Monday afternoon, suburban zoning and subdivision problems will be on the agenda.

The city currently has subdivision ordinance control over all unincorporated areas within two miles of the city limits, but the county's zoning ordinance also applies and the overlapping jurisdictions have been causing some problems.

"From the standpoint of productive, efficient government, this should be handled by a single agency," County Attorney Julius E. Gernes suggested, describing the legal procedure whereby the county could give up zoning control within two miles of the city and let the city control everything.

The two governing bodies met just a week ago and another meeting is not expected for some time.

Plans to open bridge in city will be studied

The county board's plans to open a CSAH 17 bridge near the Winona Area Vocational Technical Institute have drawn a promise of further study from the Minnesota Highway Department.

MHD District Engineer R. J. McDonald told County Highway Engineer Earl Welshons in a Feb. 27 letter the state would conduct another review of traffic patterns and problems in that area.

The letter was in response to a county letter announcing it plans to open the bridge this summer. It could expand CSAH 17 to four lanes there, easing traffic problems at the institute, but the MHD had asked commissioners to delay opening until Highway 43 reconstruction nearby is completed.

Angry that the bridge has sat idle for three years without apparent state progress on Highway 43 reconstruction, commissioners a month ago decided to open the bridge anyway.

Unless the state's study indicates problems not now foreseen, commissioners still plan to open the bridge next summer.

Grant request for Main House funds is given approval

A federal grant request for continued operation of the Main House drew county board approval Monday afternoon.

Commissioners approved the request, for the fiscal year beginning Aug. 1, for $20,890 in federal funds through the Governor's Commission on Crime Prevention and Control. The $20,890 budget calls for $25,000 in county funds.

County Court Services Department Director Mickey Ellenbecker explained the grant program for group homes for juvenile delinquents requires gradually-increasing county financial participation through the three-year program.

After that, the home's operation is to be entirely county financed, although some funds are realized — Ellenbecker predicted $5,000-7,000 this year — from the Minnesota Department of Corrections.

At a cost of about $4,000 per child per year, Ellenbecker said, "that's less than half of what it costs to put a kid through Red Wing" (State Training School), and predicted future years will see the state beginning to bill counties for use of the training school.

In addition to financial savings, he said rehabilitation has been much more successful in Main House.

Rural sewage system permit plan approved

Rural sewage system installations in Winona County will require a permit from now on, the county board agreed Monday afternoon.

County Sanitary Administrator Larry Rupprecht drew board approval of a permit application form to be completed by each system installer when the sewage system is designed.

Rupprecht said it will insure homeowners they're getting a sewage system that will work properly and will give installers a document showing the system as designed and installed, and will as well save Rupprecht's office time in inspections and checking system design.

While the law allows the county to charge a permit fee, commissioners agreed with Rupprecht no fee will be charged.

State land for animal shelter won't be free

Land the county is to obtain in Goodview for an animal shelter here originally thought, the county board was told Monday afternoon.

County Attorney Julius E. Gernes told commissioners land to be turned back to the county by the Minnesota Highway Department will cost at least $500 under a state regulation intended to compensate the state for handling the transfer.

The county intended to give the land it thought it was getting free from the state to the Winona County Humane Society for construction of its planned Gretchen Lambertson Animal Shelter.

Gernes said he has written the society concerning the problem, adding it would be legal for the county to absorb the purchase cost if commissioners chose to.

No decision is expected until the board can next meet with humane society officials.

Huntley battles against cancer

HELENA, Mont. (AP) — Former television newscaster Chet Huntley characterizes his fight against cancer as a "roll of the dice."

Huntley, 62, is taking weekly chemotherapy treatments to arrest the lung cancer for which he underwent surgery earlier this year.

His voice booming with the authoritative tone that marked the Huntley-Brinkley news show before he retired in 1970 to return to his native Montana, Huntley says he is gaining strength daily.

"The doctors seem to be not without hope," Huntley said during a telephone interview Monday. "They tell me I'm doing very well with it, but you never know. It's a roll of the dice."

Huntley was released from a Billings hospital Jan. 22. He has been recuperating at his home in southwestern Montana, near Bozeman. The original hospital announcement on the surgery said the former newscaster was operated on for stomach cancer.

It is time to administer justice

Now that the federal grand jury has finally begun returning indictments resulting from alleged illegal activities during the 1972 presidential elections, we make these petitions relative to them:

1. That no defendant be found indigent and requiring a government-paid attorney.
2. That trials of whatever not guilty pleas may be heard, begin promptly and proceed with dispatch.
3. That, mercifully, they will be free of the silly charades — both in and out of the courtroom — that surrounded and delayed a trial such as that of the Chicago Seven or the AIM trial now under way in St. Paul.
4. That all concerned — the court (the judges and the lawyers) and the defendants be mindful that it is necessary that Americans learn the truth and quickly, not because we are curious but because we are fearful of the integrity of our government at the highest level.
5. That President Nixon reexamine his personal wishes for an honorable place in American history and our need for an honorable man in the White House. In that process he should recall what he told the nation last April 30.

"Who, then, is to blame for what happened in this case?"

"For specific criminal actions by specific individuals, those who committed those actions, must, of course, bear the liability and pay the penalty."

"For the fact that alleged improper actions took place within the White House or within my campaign organization, the easiest course would be for me to blame those to whom I delegated the responsibility to run the campaign. But that would be a cowardly thing to do."

"I will not place the blame on subordinates — on people whose zeal exceeded their judgment, and who may have done wrong in a cause they deeply believed to be right."

"In any organization, the man at the top must bear the responsibility. That responsibility, therefore, belongs here, in this office. I accept it."—A.B.

member of the House, "To hell with your problems." Yet, these are the men who probably will cast the most important votes on Nixon's impeachment.

This was one more demonstration of the Nixon strategy of clinging to office. The demise of Senator Candor apparently signaled the last attempt to win back public confidence and Congressional standing. Some astute criminal lawyers believe the famous 18-minute gap on a crucial tape recording necessarily represented a decision to "beat the rap" by any means, rather than a further effort to establish innocence. The news conference remarks about his own party hardly disclose a man still hoping to restore the political leadership and allegiances of other days.

NIXON already has established one essential part of his strategy—delay and obfuscation. Even an deal with the House's constitutional function of an impeachment inquiry, he is claiming privilege, national security, the necessity to protect his office — for all the world like a character in a Philip Roth satire. While he can hardly hope to stall off an impeachment vote entirely, delay enables Nixon to "play for the break," to raise confusing constitutional questions to hamper the investigation, possibly to mount counterattacks on some vulnerable members of Congress. When he delays, he is not impeached.

Nixon may have disclosed another line of defense when he insisted, against the view of most constitutional authorities, that President could be impeached only for a criminal offense. If the House Judiciary Committee, as seems likely, takes the opposite view, the ground may be laid for Nixon to challenge the constitutionality of a House resolution and vote to impeach him. How such a challenge would be settled, in what forum and by what means, is not clear. It certainly will cause more delay and confusion and might well affect the outcome of an impeachment vote or of a trial in the Senate.

Enough delay might even nullify any impeachment. If Nixon were impeached by the House this year, but the Senate, for some reason, failed to act before this Congress adjourns, the House action might be no longer valid. That is another constitutional question for which there is no certain answer; nor is it clear whether a new House would impeach Nixon all over again on the basis of what the old House had done, or whether new charges would have to be developed.

EVEN AT the point where Nixon might have been impeached or convicted, there could be opportunity for further delay through some form of judicial appeal. The House Judiciary Committee staff has taken the position that there is no judicial review of an impeachment proceeding, but some constitutional authorities think otherwise. Even if the House and Senate took the position that impeachment is a political matter solely within their province, and not susceptible to court review, if Nixon could make a plausible case that he had been deprived of what might have been his rights in a court room, difficult questions again would be raised about the proceeding.

Or suppose — just for a final Rothian touch — that Nixon, proclaiming a variety of constitutional objections, refused to yield his office even though convicted and removed by the Senate. Forcibly evicting a President is at best a distasteful matter; he might well cast a cloud over the legality of his successor's actions; and the conceivable consequences in national politics and foreign affairs are grim.

Merely to raise these possibilities, of course, is to raise the ultimate question — how much will the American people stand for? Even at that, Nixon may calculate that the point will come, if he can hang on long enough, when they will wish the whole exhausting matter would just go away.

Keep enlisted men waiting." In came the enlisted man. "I'm an enlisted man, admiral," he said, "and I'm clerking for Kissinger over at the White House, and I just thought you'd like to see some of Kissinger's most extremely private papers which they've been holding out on you."

"Very thoughtful of you," said the admiral, scanning the papers, "but since there's nothing here I haven't learned through legitimate channels, it would be silly to turn you over to the police for ripping off highly classified papers. It's always a pleasure to see an enlisted man, young fellow. Came in anytime. Anytime at all." Now, I know this conversation never really took place, yet my mind knew that if the Pentagon espionage affair had occurred as reported in the paper, this conversation was the most logical of all possible conversations that could possibly have taken place consistent with what the parties had tried to make us believe.

THIS, INCIDENTALLY, was the only time I ever heard Moorer in conversation. President Nixon, on the other hand, is always talking to people up there. Once he assembled Haldeman, Ehrlichman, Mitchell, Stans, Kleindienst, Magruder, Chapin, Segretti and who knows how many other absolutely top White House insiders — they didn't say a word, but I could hear them breathing respectfully — and the President said he had been baffled and saddened by the thought that all these men, his favorite human beings, had not seen fit to take him into their confidence about the Watergate affair.

"What I want to know," he said, "is whether there is anything else that is being deliberately kept from me." THEN, OF course, there was that incredible conversation in which Sen. Kennedy told the rest of the Democratic party what would happen to anybody who made a move toward the presidential nomination, but that one gives me such a headache I'm not even going to think about it.

kind of Battle of Britain lies ahead. IN SOME WAYS, it will be a more difficult challenge, because it is more obscure and complicated and tends to divide the people rather than unite them. The simple fact is that they have been living beyond their means for a generation.

The conversation of thoughtful men and women here is probably a better guide to the prevailing mood than the pronouncements of the politicians. Lord Franks, former British ambassador in Washington, former chairman of Lloyd's Bank, and now provost of Worcester College, Oxford, sees three or four hard years ahead for Britain, with little economic growth to meet expanding British expectations.

He notes that 75 percent of the British workers today have no personal experience of the difficult days of unemployment, and the younger workers have no memories of the cooperative struggles of the last war. Therefore, they do not understand that one group in society — say, the miners — cannot get a much larger slice of the national cake unless some other groups get less.

ON THE WHOLE, Lord Franks believes the people will come to understand the threat of inflation and make the necessary sacrifices, but if they do not, he says, he would not rule out the possibility of an "autocratic government of the right" within four or five years.

C. P. Snow, the British writer and scientist, sounds equally concerned about the future. "We are also looking for more responsibility among the people, and thinks they must have to get it from the left. He recalls a comment of one of his colleagues that the trouble with Britain is that "the workers don't work and the managers don't manage," and he adds rather sadly that he fears this may be true.

Arnold Toynbee, the historian, now packing his books in London to retire to Yorkshire on his son's farm, is in a mood of Spenglerian gloom and says the West is living through "The Age of Greed." Britain had not done what was essential to defend herself before the two German wars, and he thought they would do better in this generation. "But now I feel there is something incorrigible about us, a selfishness here in this island, and a scramble for oil among the nations, each looking out for itself."

"We are measuring everything by money," he says, "and the irony of it is that even our money is melting away."

REBECCA WEST is struggling with cataracts now, but she still sees a less gloomy future and believes British will have the patience and the wisdom to face up to any problem once they understand it. As to the possibility of an autocratic government here, she thinks this is nonsense. "The British have always known how to cut off the heads of kings, or any other autocrats for hundreds of years," she says.

Meanwhile, the general reaction here seems to be one of relief that the election is finally over.

On balance, the election has undoubtedly increased public education more than it has encouraged class hatred.

ABOUT the solution to Britain's problems there is obviously no clear answer but there is at least substantial agreement on the question. It was put quite clearly by Reginald Muddling: Who will discipline Britain to get her out of her present pickle?

This was what the British election was all about: Whether free men or discipline themselves to preserve their freedom, and while they did not answer it so clearly as their leaders suggested, at least they faced and debated it. Soon France and West Germany and the United States will have to struggle with the same dilemma, for this is the central question not only before Britain but before the whole of the West.

The Paper Preservation Division of the String Hoarders, Button Savers and Bric-a-brac Collectors of America advises us that 1973 calendars should not be thrown away, even if they are illustrated by nothing more than a funeral parlor advertisement. In 1970, the SHBS-BCA says, they'll be just as good as they were in 1973, the dates and the days of the week being the same, then and now.

With all due respect to the paper shortage and our conservationist duties, we have no intention of saving last year's calendar. First of all, '73 was one of those years we would rather not be reminded of every time we open the catch-all drawer. Worse still, we're terrified at the possibility that if Americans everywhere were to rehang their 1973 calendars in five years some sort of osmotic reaction might take place, causing 1979 to absorb 1973 and do it all over again.

Why not government for good of people?

Re: Closing of camping privileges in Whitewater Wildlife Management Area.

On Wednesday, the Daily News reported that one reason the Department of Natural Resources decided to close the area to overnight camping was that the State Department of Health said that the area would have to be brought up to state standards of health, such as they are in private campgrounds — toilet facilities, etc.

Why do government agencies always feel that they have to set standards for everything at the expense of people's enjoyment?

Our family has enjoyed camping in the Whitewater Management Area for three years. One of the reasons we love going there is because it is not like the private campgrounds. We have a portable toilet we bought for just such occasions.

The WMA is one of the few places that are left where you can go camping and really enjoy getting back to nature. Private campgrounds — where people are placed one on top of the other, minibikes roaring by at all hours of the day and night — is not our idea of camping.

Lying in your tent at night, listening to the bubbling of the nearby creek, the beauty and peacefulness by day, the hiking and wading in the creek for the children — just the wide open spaces with no one else around—that's what makes camping in the Whitewater area enjoyable. One doesn't miss proper toilet facilities or mind hauling one's own trash home again.

Just once we would like to see a government agency pass a resolution for the good of the people that really takes into consideration what the people really want.

Caucus begins political process

Hey you — the one standing at the grocery check-out counter mumbling about the high cost of food. Why weren't you at the DFL or GOP caucus last Monday night expressing your displeasure to your neighbors? And you, Mr. Hardhat, didn't I see you in a tavern Monday night preaching that America has no patriotism left in her? Why weren't you at the caucus? Mrs. Homemaker, couldn't you find a babysitter last Monday night? I didn't see you at the caucus either. Weren't you telling your neighbor, that very morning, that all politicians are crooked?

To all of you who have been belly-aching, bitching and moaning about bad politics and sour economics, I just want to tell you that the reason for the present situation is that people don't take an active interest in their government. You missed your best opportunity to speak out last Monday evening. The machinery is now in motion, politicians are tuning their ear drums in preparation for the onslaught of complaints and ideas that will flow up from the grassroot level. If you have a complaint, there isn't a better way to get that problem to the politician than at a caucus.

It still isn't too late. Call your local GOP or DFL representative and tell him or her what's on your mind. If you're determined to see bad politicians at the unemployment office, donate your time and money to your party. Just think, if all of us stood up and spoke out about the stupid things going on in this country, we would scare our political leaders.

Once deleted plan for use of public funds restored

State Senate committee OK's election overhaul

By GERRY NELSON

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — The Minnesota Senate's Finance Committee has approved a massive overhaul of the state's election laws.

The measure approved Monday put back in a once-deleted plan to use public funds for campaigns.

The measure moves on to the Senate floor, where it likely will be debated before the end of the week.

The provision for partial public financing of campaigns was restored on a vote of 48, with two DFLers bolting a partyline vote.

Voting with Republicans to oppose the provision were Sens. Jack Davies and Robert Tennessen, both Minneapolis lawyers. As the bill now stands, taxpayers may check a box on their income tax forms next year to divert $1 apiece into campaign coffers.

They will have the choice of earmarking the dollar for one of the major political parties, or to a "general fund" shared by all candidates.

The $1 checkoff is similar to a provision on federal tax forms for financing presidential campaigns.

Minnesota will be the first state to adopt this method of public campaign financing if the checkoff provision stays in the bill. No funds would be available for this year's campaigns, however.

The use of public funds for politicking had been taken out on an 87 vote last Friday in the Senate Tax Committee.

This is the major controversy in the bill, with most Republicans and a handful of DFLers objecting to the use of tax dollars.

Sen. Steve Keefe, DFL-Minneapolis, one of the sponsors, estimated that $300,000 a year eventually will be authorized by taxpayers for campaign use.

He said the use of public funds will "take the pressure off candidates," who otherwise must run their total campaigns on contributed funds.

"It guarantees to a candidate...that he will have access to a minimum amount of funds," Keefe said.

The bill has a formula for distributing the funds to candidates for statewide and legislative offices. None will go to candidates for Congress and U.S. Senate.

Tennessen was successful in deleting another provision that gave political parties 10 per cent off the top.

He suggested that some political parties—not naming them—should be going out of existence for lack of public support.

"This props them up artificially," Tennessen said.

The bill was approved on a voice vote. A similar version has passed the House. The key test on whether the public financing plan stays in will come in the Senate debate.

The use of a checkoff plan is one of Gov. Wendell Anderson's priority items.

The measure also contains a provision allowing persons who contribute to candidates to take a tax credit of up to $12.50. This was amended to allow the credit only for contributions to state and legislative candidates.

Other provisions in the bill set spending limits for candidates, ranging up to about $600,000 for gubernatorial races; require candidates, committees and lobbyists to make periodic reports; and require disclosure of contributions over $50 in legislative races and over $100 in statewide races.

The $1 checkoff has been opposed by Republicans through-more than a year of hearings on the bill in Senate committees.

Since DFLers predominate among Minnesota voters, according to polls, the GOP feels it will come out on the short end as taxpayers authorize the use of public funds.

Under the checkoff, a taxpayer who marks his box is authorizing state Treasury dollars, not money from a tax refund. The checkoff costs the taxpayer nothing.

The Senate Finance Committee approved a $120,000 appropriation to finance activities of a six-member state Ethics Commission created in the bill. The commission would oversee the new election laws.

House approves bill to conserve energy

By GENE LAHAMMER

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — The Minnesota House approved a bill Monday which its backers said would put the state in the forefront of the energy conservation movement.

It was the second time around for the bill, which had failed on a 64-60 vote last Thursday, falling four votes short of the constitutional majority of 68.

The bill was sent to the Senate floor on a 79-49 vote, with the support of 65 DFLers and 14 Republicans. The "no" votes came from 10 DFLers and 39 GOP lawmakers.

Only four Republicans voted for the bill, sponsored by Rep. Willard Munger, DFL-Duluth, last week.

Rep. Arne Carlson, R-Minneapolis, a coauthor, asked the House to drop the "partisan nonsense and vote this bill out."

GOP Floor Leader Aubrey Dirlam of Redwood Falls said the measure delegates too much authority to the executive branch—the state's new energy commissioner.

Noting the commissioner has the power to promulgate rules and regulations which give the force of law, Dirlam said, "You and I are going to take the heat for them and we have nothing to say about what they are."

Munger amended the bill to exclude homes and apartments from the minimum heat-loss standards to be issued by the state energy czar. Both existing and new nonresidential buildings would be covered by the building code standards for insulation, heating and lighting.

Among other things, the bill bans outdoor gas lamps, except those needed for safety; requires state and local governments to buy cars weighing 3,500 pounds and under unless they can show a need for heavier cars, and puts limits on outdoor advertising lights.

Meanwhile, the House rejected an attempt to repeal the 10 cent per pound tax on colored margarine on a 79-52 vote.

Rep. Henry Savelkoul, R-Albert Lea, tried to gain immediate House consideration of the bill which cleared the Senate on a 52-10 vote last week.

He needed a two-thirds majority or 90 votes to keep the bill from going to the House Tax Committee, but failed to muster a simple majority.

However, House Tax Chairman Ray Pavlak said the proposal would be heard in committee. He had said earlier that the oleo tax repeal would not be given a hearing.

The South St. Paul DFLer said lawmakers should consider some other tax to replace the $4 million in annual revenue which would be lost by repealing the oleo tax.

Savelkoul said Minnesota is the only state which is not phasing out the margarine tax.

Sixty-five DFLers and 14 Republicans voted against the procedural motion to keep the bill on the House floor, while 12 DFLers and 40 GOP lawmakers voted "yes."

Rep. Gerald Knickerbocker, R-Minnetonka, said later that 10 DFLers who are sponsors of bills to repeal the oleo tax voted against keeping the proposal on the floor.

In other action, the House sent the $7.7 million supplemental school aid bill to the Senate Monday on a 127-2 vote.

Only Reps. Mary Forsythe, R-Edina, and Adolph Kvam, R-Litchfield, voted against the bill.

Rep. Joseph Graba, DFL-Wadena, said the measure was aimed at helping school districts meet soaring prices for such operating costs as heating fuel and gasoline for school buses.

Graba said heating costs for some districts had risen by 250 to 300 per cent.

The bill increases state transportation aids by five per cent, or $2.8 million, and funnels

Morjiz was found by the restaurant's owner, John Cook, when he opened the restaurant about 6:30 a.m.

City council roundup

Boathouse rental plan debated

Despite administrative recommendations, councilmen don't want to consider boathouse rental fees unless they apply to more owners than those on Latsch Island.

The decision followed a planning department report, ordered in January when the council first indicated it wanted a comprehensive boathouse ordinance. It still does, and the administration was asked to draw an ordinance that offers less "piecemeal" approach to boathouse licensing.

The report detailed conditions at 10 boathouse areas within Winona, but concluded that conditions varied so widely that the city might do better on an area-by-area basis.

Some boathouses are on city land which traditionally charged rental while some are not, and others are on private land in other circumstances, reported Planning Director Charles Dillerud.

The administration has not yet fully determined ownership of some of the boathouse mooring areas.

Garbage collection survey now under way

The city-ordered garbage collection survey is off the ground, Director of Inspection Bruce Johnstone reported to councilmen by letter Monday.

A temporary employee is working with garbage crews on a house-to-house survey of current garbage pickups. Final report should be ready in a month or more, he added.

The survey will help councilmen determine usefulness of the present system, which provides city-financed pickup of wet garbage at residences and businesses.

Diagonal parking near McVey's planned

Diagonal parking on West King Street at McVey's Ice Cream Shop, 451 Huff St., can be enforced if an ordinance introduced Monday gets final council approval.

Parking over the sidewalk also would be enforced under the proposed ordinance. As further encouragement to keep cars off the walkway, McVey's promised to install vertical curbing, city officials reported.

Expanded public administration plan supported

An expanded public administration program at Winona State College drew approval from the city council Monday. But a proposed continuation of the intern program prompted councilmen to ask why the college doesn't reimburse the city to help train its students.

Teachers are reimbursed for working with student teachers, argued at large Councilman Barry Nelson (3rd, 4th Wards), himself a teacher.

The intern program is good for trainees, but probably would cost the city money, agreed Eugene Gough (2nd Ward). Winona already has sponsored interns to the Port Authority, and Planning Department. They are now paid $2 an hour, officials noted. The amount of pay has caused some friction at city hall, reported General Services Director Robert Norton. "They're getting paid as much as some of our clerical help," he said.

Councilmen said they would consider the financing of interns as the need arose. In response to written questions from Ahmed El-Afandi, head of the WSC political science department, the council said graduates of the college program could apply for city hall work but couldn't be promised jobs. Winona need not advise the college of municipal job openings, the council added.

Bicentennial group plan wins support

If Winona wants to be designated a Bicentennial Community for the upcoming national celebration, it needs a special bicentennial planning committee before March 15.

Councilmen approved the concept and will forward the information to the Winona County Historical Society and patriotic organizations, reported Mayor Norman Indall.

License holder finds rejection can be a saver

If at first you don't succeed, it may come cheaper the second time around.

Two weeks after the city council denied a cigarette license renewal to Ambrose Schwartz' Hollywood Bar at 929 E. Sanborn St., it approved a second application from Schwartz.

And because it's already March, reported City Clerk John Carter, he will charge Schwartz' delay in applying for each month left in 1974. The council last month denied the application to protest Schwartz' delay in applying for the renewal, which should have been filed in December.

"Well, we certainly taught him a lesson," cracked at-large Councilman Stephen Delano as he asked administration to draw penalty clauses for future tardy renewals.

A comprehensive study of license fees is now under review by city department heads and will come to the council soon, promised City Manager Paul Schriever.

Laufenburger elected

The toss of a coin made Earl Laufenburger (1st Ward) City Council President in election Monday. He succeeds at-large Councilman and fellow candidate Barry Nelson (3rd, 4th Wards), who nominated him for the post.

Laufenburger will preside at council meetings in the absence of Mayor Norman Indall.

Specifications OKed

Specifications for street department materials — sand, pea rock, crushed limestone, and traffic marking paint — were approved by councilmen Monday. Bids will be opened March 18 before the next regular council meeting.

Improvement of airport will be delayed

Winona won't spend any more money on airport upgrading until it settles a difference with the Minnesota Department of Aeronautics, City Manager Paul Schriever told councilmen Monday.

Basically, Aeronautics Commissioner Lawrence McCabe doesn't want the department's money spent on anything that isn't for the airport's exclusive use. But the city, acting on approvals from other department sources, awarded contracts in January to purchase a truck and tractor-mower for shared use by airport and city.

Shared use of vehicles by various city departments is the guiding concept behind the central garage now being readied for construction, the manager explained. It's economically necessary for a city the size of Winona, but McCabe doesn't now see it that way, he added.

The city will attempt negotiations or appeal later, after completing an upgraded airport zoning ordinance and a new airport operations manual, he said.

In other airport business, the council approved payments totaling $2,415 for easements to construct an approach lighting system. The payments, appropriated last month, include $1,500 to the Mississippi Development Consortium and $915 to Herbert and Heidi-Lori Gundersen.

Councilman Raymond Rupert was appointed to the Airport zoning board to fill the term of former 3rd Ward councilman Howard Hoveland.

Two more groups to back Earl are formed

MADISON (UPI) — Two more local committees backing Assembly Majority Leader Anthony S. Earl, D-Wausau, for attorney general, have been formed. Earl's campaign organization announced Monday.

Formation of groups in Outagamie County and Marshfield brought to eight the number of local organizations working for Earl.

Special parking district plan is introduced

A special parking district that should discourage on-street parking by Fiberite Corp. employees near the west side plant is part of an ordinance introduced by the city council Monday.

If approved in two weeks, the ordinance would establish seven-hour parking limits from 6:30 a.m. to 11:30 p.m. along most streets within two or three blocks of the Fiberite plant at 501 W. 3rd St.

CITY OFFICIALS weren't sure it was a perfect solution to the neighborhood's on-street parking problem, but residents supported it as "100 percent better than what we've got now."

The seven-hour limits ought to discourage street parking by employees on eight hour shifts, which began at 7 a.m., 3 and 11 p.m., sponsors predicted. Extent of the district — most of the area from West 3rd to West 5th streets, east of Ewing and west of Wilson streets — also should improve use of the off-street parking lots one and two blocks from the plant, added Planning Director Charles Dillerud.

The ordinance also proposes a new "no parking" zone on the north side of West 3rd Street for 60 feet east of McBride to ease truck turning.

THE SEVEN-hour district would include 5th Street from Grand to McBride streets, the south side of 3rd from McBride to Ewing streets, and the segments between 3rd and 5th streets for Sioux, McBride, Grand and the east side of Olmstead streets; plus 4th Street from Wilson to Olmstead streets and the south side of 4th Street from Olmstead to Ewing streets.

Anthony Yanskey Jr. broke the Missouri state record for copperheads when a brush hog he was operating near Jefferson City killed the snake. Yanskey's copperhead was slightly more than 41 inches long.

Plan for fulltime attorney scrapped

Winona's search for a full-time city attorney was scrapped Monday as councilmen decided to stick with the part-time services of Robertson — Wohletz.

Also approved was legal department's 1974 budget of $25,000, which last October prompted the study of hiring a full-time city attorney.

A council subcommittee headed by then 3rd-Ward Councilman Howard Hoveland estimated that the city could have a full-time lawyer, secretary and office for $28,310. A separate study by City Manager Paul Schriever put the estimate about $1,000 lower.

BOTH FIGURES came under fire from attorney and at-large Councilman Stephen Delano (1st, 2nd wards), who contended the average costs for a one-man law firm would run from $40,000 to $50,000 annually.

The city planned to offer a $15,000 salary — not enough to attract or keep an attorney with the experience to stand up to city hall duties, Delano continued. Schriever cited a study of municipalities to support his contention that a city Winona's size could save money with full-time legal services. Thirteen persons applied for the post, one of whom said he would accept a $12,000 salary.

Barry Nelson, lone member of the three-man Hoveland subcommittee still on the council, supported his group's unanimous decision to hire a full-time attorney.

Nelson alone opposed 4th Ward Councilman Jerry Borzyskowski's motion to rescind an earlier council motion — in effect, to abandon the search for a possible full-time attorney.

Nelson, Delano and Councilman Earl Laufenburger (1st Ward) couldn't get support to reconsider the legal budget at the March 18 council meeting.

CITY ATTORNEY George Robertson Jr. told councilmen following the votes, "I believe this city isn't ready for a full-time city attorney." Assistant city attorney is Frank Wohletz.

Robertson & Wohletz were among tenants of the Professional Building destroyed by fire Feb. 13, but the city came out of the fire "pretty good," according to Mayor Norman Indall. The firm has recovered a "great percentage" of documents, the mayor added.

SHERWOOD, Wis. (UPI) — A state fire marshal was brought in Monday to investigate the possibility of arson in a fire that destroyed the Lake Road Beauty Shop near here.

Mrs. Louis Miller, who operates the shop, said she was alerted about 3:45 a.m. Monday. She said the entire building and its contents were destroyed in the blaze.

Grand Rapids couple killed in two-car crash

BROOKSTON, Minn. (AP) — A rural Grand Rapids couple died Monday in a two-car head-on collision on U.S. 2 just west of Brookston.

St. Louis County authorities identified the victims as Hogle Brown, 68, and his wife, Teresa, 59.

Authorities said the driver of the second vehicle, Vincent Hedin, 60, rural Cohasset, was wearing his seat belt and shoulder harness, and escaped with a broken nose.

The accident occurred about 11:45 a.m. Both victims died en route to a Cloquet hospital.

The two deaths raised the state's 1974 highway death toll to 75, compared with 124 a year ago.

Israeli pullback is being examined

By United Press International

United Nations inspection teams set out today to determine whether Israeli and Egyptian forces in the Sinai Desert have complied satisfactorily with the pullback agreement worked out by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

La. Gen. Ensis Sillasvuo, commander of the U.N. Emergency Force in the region, ordered his men to fan out in the Sinai and make a "complete inspection" of Israeli and Egyptian positions in the region.

"In the evening I will report the results to the parties," the Finnish general told newsmen in Jerusalem.

Israel said its forces completed their pullback from the Suez Canal Sunday—a day ahead of schedule—but field commanders said the last Israeli units would not move behind the new lines until today.

The separation pact, worked out by Kissinger during three

Middle East trips, limits each nation to 7,000 men, 30 tanks and 36 artillery pieces in front-line positions in the Sinai Desert.

The Egyptians were manning outposts along the East Bank of the 101-mile-long waterway and the Israelis guarded a new desert defense line at the strategic Mitla and Giddi passes some 13 miles east of the canal.

Sillasvuo's 2,000 U.N. troops have set up a buffer zone between the two armies to make sure the Israelis and Egyptians stick to the disengagement accord.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko headed for Damascus today for his second visit to Syria in less than a week after completing five days of talks with Egyptian leaders. Diplomatic sources in Cairo said the Soviet Union has been trying—so far without success—to get Syria and Israel to hold their troop separation talks in Geneva.

Cash debt to renewal project is due soon

The city's cash debt to its urban renewal project must be paid off by the end of June according to a report from Dr. William Finkelnburg, chairman of the Winona Housing and Redevelopment Authority.

That's a few months earlier than officials hoped, but later than the former January deadline.

Winona still owes cash contributions of $149,956, which will be paid by the sale of tax increment bonds. The city's share of cash and non-cash contributions totals $677,656, or 25 percent of net costs for Minnesota Urban Renewal Project R-51 on the Morgan Block and several nearby parcels.

By asking for the payment no later than June 28, the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) will get the contribution just before the new fiscal year begins July 1.

Star Transit cost to governments up over year 1972

Star Transit System cab-bus service cost Winona and Goodview $11,262 during 1973.

The total is up 39 percent from the 1972 combined subsidy of $8,085.

Winona's share of the 1973 debt was $10,248 or 91 percent of the debt, with the remainder financed by Goodview. Monthly deficits ranged from a low of $666 in February 1973 to a high of $1,316 in August. December's total was $787, councilmen were told in a report filed by Finance Director Darrel Johnson. The January 1974 deficit totaled $889.

In one-year contract with system operator, Yellow Cab Co. of Winona, the municipalities agreed to guarantee the firm $122 a day in receipts or subsidies. That contract expired Dec. 31.

Open burning permit is given approval

Another city open burning permit approved by the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency received council approval Monday.

City Forester Bruce Fuller sought the permit for various land clearance and tree-related programs this year. Burning will be in the River Bend Industrial Park land clearance area, officials said, and City Fire Marshal Bruce Johnstone will oversee burning to minimize discomfort to adjacent residential areas.

Council denies meet with NSP officials

Until Northern States Power Co. wants to negotiate, the city council doesn't want to hear any more about its proposed gas and electric rate increases.

The council unanimously denied a request from Thomas Jepson, NSP's Hiawatha Division manager, to meet with regional NSP officials before March 19, the day increases are scheduled to take effect in most NSP-served communities in Minnesota and South Dakota. Those average 15 percent for electricity and 6 percent for gas.

Jepson said the company wanted councilmen to meet with a company rate staff member, a vice president and a regional manager. They could provide a "more adequate" presentation of the firm's needs than Jepson himself did at the Feb. 19 hearing. "It wasn't your presentation, it was your rates," answered Councilman Raymond Rupert (3rd Ward).

At-large Councilman Barry Nelson said he didn't doubt that NSP might need the increase—but he did object to a rate schedule that allows metropolitan residents to pay less for the utilities than outstate NSP customers.

City officials asked about progress in St. Paul for legislation to create a state Public Utilities Commission. The bill is passed, would establish the commission by Jan. 1, 1975, said City Manager Paul Schriever, and the commission could then review utility rates. Presently, the matter may go to negotiation, arbitration or the courts.

Witness testifies in murder trial

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — A young Minneapolis woman testified Monday that the gunshot that killed a taxi driver was fired by Warren E. Johnson, one of the defendants.

Jackie Ellis, 24, testified Monday in Hennepin County District Court.

Johnson, 20, Minneapolis, and two other men are charged with second degree murder and aggravated robbery in the Oct. 13 shooting death of Woodrow Kipp, a 59-year-old Yellow Cab Co. driver.

Miss Ellis said she was standing with Johnson and two other men when Kipp's cab pulled up at a nearby house and Johnson said "they needed some money." She said the three men then ran to the cab. Then three shots went off, Miss Ellis testified.

Miss Ellis wears glasses for nearsightedness but did not have them on the night of the shooting. She said, however, that she could see what was happening near the cab, a distance of about 80 feet from where she was standing.

January and 1.54 a year earlier, the department said. The figures represent the pounds of feed equal in value to one pound of milk sold by dairy farmers.

Prices of all types of milk averaged $8.95 per 100 pounds last month, up from $8.89 in January and $8.58 in February 1973. But dairy rations averaged $6.12 per 100 pounds, up from $9 in January and $4.25 a year earlier.

SEMCAC wins U.S. Jaycees' recognition

RUSHFORD, Minn. — The U.S. Jaycees Foundation has selected Southeastern Minnesota Citizens Action Council, Inc. (SEMCAC) as one of the 114 outstanding Community Action agencies in the United States, announced Halvor Lacher, executive director.

SEMCAC serves Houston, Winona and Fillmore counties. The award winning project was a senior citizens work project designed to help low income older adults earn extra income. The project will be used as a model for case study.

Lacher explained that the project was sponsored by SEMCAC in cooperation with Asco Corp., and Lake Center Switch Co., Winona, and Rush Products Co., Rushford. The original grant for the now self-sustaining work program was obtained from the OBER Foundation from St. Paul through the Governor's Council on Aging.

The selection was the result of a nationwide study canvassing 156 cities in 50 states. The four-month study project, UPLIFT, located and identified innovative and highly successful low-income, community-initiated, community-run programs, illustrative of "what people themselves can do."

The programs were reviewed by subject area in one of the following categories: economic development, employment — manpower training, community organization, housing, education, health, corrections, social welfare and special projects.

Each of the winning projects will have its history written by a professional writer for a publication to be distributed within low-income communities to serve as a technical assistance manual for new self-help programs.

The project was made possible by an Office of Economic Opportunity Research and Development grant awarded to the U.S. Jaycees Foundation in July 1973.

Reimbursement for mileage costs OKed

Members of the School Board of Winona Independent District 861 are entitled to be reimbursed for mileage expenses incurred on school business, directors were advised Monday night.

Board Chairman Frank J. Allen noted that Mrs. Paul Kronebusch, 5th District director, at last month's board meeting had pointed out that the 5th District embraces most of the area outside the city of Winona and that considerable travel is required on school matters.

She asked whether any provisions might be made for the 5th District director to obtain mileage reimbursement.

Allen said that the board attorney had found that a member of the board may be paid 7 1/2 cents a mile for travel to and from regular and special board meetings and 15 cents a mile for travel for other school business.

Allen said that he felt that since other school personnel are allowed a 10-cent-a-mile travel allowance, any reimbursement for board members be limited to 10 cents until any changes are made in allowances for other school personnel.

In another action, board members adopted a resolution making application for any funds that might be available to the district from federal funds under Title II of the Elementary and Secondary School Act for purchase of library and other resource materials.

Goodview asks 5-year cable TV agreement

By AL DAVIS
Daily News Staff Writer
Thomas Pitts, Winona manager of TelePrompter Cable Television, Winona, will submit to the Goodview City Council a revised version of a model ordinance regarding a cable TV franchise agreement he offered the council last month.

Kent Gernander, Goodview City attorney, joined councilmen Monday evening to review the model ordinance. Although Pitts suggested a 15-year franchise, Mayor E. G. Callahan instructed Pitts to write in a five-year agreement with a five-year option, similar to the franchise with the city of Winona.

WINONA, Pitts said, receives 3 percent of gross subscriber income from his firm which ostensibly is used for regulation of the franchise. Councilmen will have to determine whether Goodview will ask for this type of arrangement or, as Councilman L. T. Christianson put it, "we should get a reduction in rates."

Gernander told the council that up to 3 percent could be charged under Federal Communications Commission regulations without justification.

Pitts said that future rates would be pegged on the service to individual municipalities and not to the agreement with the city of Winona. Christianson commented that "Winona is pretty handy in picking up things at the expense of other municipalities. I don't want to see this happen here."

Pitts will submit rewritten model ordinance with a rate structure and a five-year franchise renewal to the city attorney. Councilmen will decide at a later date the procedure for entering into a new agreement with the cable TV service.

IN OTHER action, the council: Instructed City Administrator Daryl Zimmer to write the state Department of Natural Resources (DNR) to continue objections to the flood insurance program which has been submitted to the village. Although acceptance must be in by April 1, DNR representatives were to have appeared to explain the program.

Authorized Elmer Obitz, city maintenance man, to attend the waste water operators' spring seminar at Rochester March 15; Authorized the purchase of a 1/4 ton chain hoist from Thern, Inc., for the water department at a cost of $64.35;

AUTHORIZED the purchase of first aid kits for city vehicles;

Agreed to wait to receive a resolution from the city of Winona regarding federal highway funds for main arterial highways between municipalities. Such funds might become available, Mayor Callahan informed the council, but a council resolution must be in effect in order to apply.

All members of the council attended Monday night's meeting.

Expansion of carpentry class is foreseen

Informal agreement that the carpentry class at the Winona Area Vocational-Technical Institute be opened to an expanded enrollment was expressed Monday night by members of the School Board of Winona Independent District 861.

William Hemsey, institute director, told directors that he had been advised by Fred Gordon, post-secondary program supervisor in the trades and industrial occupations division of the Minnesota Department of Education, that the Rochester Area Vocational-Technical Institute was contemplating adding a course in carpentry to its curriculum.

HEMSEY SAID the Rochester institute director, Dr. Charles E. Harwood, had said that organization of the class was being considered to accommodate a need for carpenters in the Rochester area.

He said that it was his understanding that two other Southern Minnesota institutes, at Faribault and Austin, had expressed opposition to the proposal on grounds that prospective students could be adequately served more economically by existing courses than by equipping a new course for Rochester.

Hemsey told the board that the Winona institute is now offering the two-year carpentry course in one section with one instructor and that enrollments have been limited.

"We're turning applicants away now," Hemsey said.

ASKED BY Board Chairman Frank J. Allen why the institute was not accepting all applicants, Hemsey said that he had not been aware that there was a demand for graduates to justify opening another section.

He said that the institute has been placing 100 percent of its graduates and that about 98 percent of them are employed in Southeastern Minnesota.

"We quit accepting applications last November for next year's course," Hemsey observed. "Right now we have 27 paid applicants for 13 openings in the first-year course, have 15 on a waiting list and since November have been sending form letters to those applying that there isn't room."

Asked by Allen why the class size had been limited, Hemsey said he wanted to be sure that there was a market for placing all graduates.

APPRISED NOW that there is an apparent need in the Rochester area for graduates, Hemsey said the institute could, without difficulty, employ a second instructor and organize a second section.

Allen asked Hemsey about the prospects of placing all graduates of an expanded program and the director replied that he had discussed the matter with his carpentry advisory committee and received "a favorable response."

Directors then informally authorized Hemsey to advise the state department that it was

Laufenburger endorses board bus-safety stand

State Sen. Roger Laufenburger (DFL-Lewiston) has endorsed Winona district school board opposition to proposals before the state Legislature which would make mandatory installation of certain safety devices on all school buses operating in the state.

Under consideration in both the state House and Senate are measures that would require bus operators to install seat belts, high back seats, tempered glass in all windows and cushions on the tops and backs of all seats.

AFTER CONSULTING with the district's three bus contractors, directors questioned the feasibility of the measures which, if adopted, would involve an estimated statewide expenditure of $6 million for the devices and a similar amount for installation.

At the request of the board, Dr. C. H. Hopf, superintendent of schools, wrote to Sen. Laufenburger and Rep. M. J. McCauley regarding the bills.

The legislators were told that while the Winona board was interested in the maintenance of highest possible school bus safety standards, the board felt that emphasis should be placed on safety at the manufacturer's level where "installations would not be too prohibitive and could be made standard on future buses."

Laufenburger and McCauley were told that the Winona board questioned the merit of all of the devices proposed and felt that the cost "appears to be an exorbitant cost for the taxpayers to bear."

AT ITS committee of the whole meeting Monday night, directors received a letter from Sen. Laufenburger in which he said he had examined the Senate bill and had "to agree with the position you have taken in regard to this bill."

He said that he had been advised that changes are being considered in federal regulations for school buses.

He said he also had learned that the "School Bus Manufacturing Institute suggests that states do not make any changes in their individual regulations at this time since the institute is conducting tests of different types of equipment and will, subsequently, suggest uniform requests for all states to follow."

Laufenburger agreed that "it may be less expensive in the future to purchase buses produced for national distribution rather than fashion our own according to future Minnesota regulations."

LAUFENBURGER told the board, "I will do my best to see that the bill in its present form is defeated."

Board Chairman Frank J. Allen said that after the board had discussed the bus issue at its last meeting, he had received a telephone call from Rep. McCauley who said he had spoken to the author of the House bill who was quoted by McCauley as saying, "As far as I'm concerned, the bill is dead."

Addition to school nursing staff asked

A request for an addition to the nursing staff of Winona Independent District 861 for the 1974-75 school year was received Monday night by the district School Board.

Mrs. Kermit Bergland, head of the nursing department, suggested that a full-time nurse be designated for a part-time nurse or that another part-time nurse be employed.

THE BOARD took the request under consideration for possible action at next Monday night's regular board meeting.

Mrs. Bergland suggested that if another part-time nurse is employed, existing facilities at Goodview Elementary School be utilized.

"With present staffing, we are unable to spend the necessary time in each building,"

Mrs. Bergland told directors, "to satisfactorily complete our tasks."

She added, "If we add the additional time in the forthcoming year to the strep culture program — which I feel is certainly a worthwhile project — we will be short-handed."

IN JUSTIFICATION of her request for additional assistance in the program, Mrs. Bergland reviewed the activities of the district's nursing services during the 1973-74 school year.

She noted that 3,262 pupils had been involved in vision screening and 3,960 in hearing screening.

The staff has a listing of 628 handicapped children, Mrs. Bergland said, and each is contacted at least once each school year, together with assistance in family planning for medical care and school adjustments where needs justify.

She said 36 students receive regular medications daily from the offices.

THE NURSING director said a limited physical education program is conducted to assist the physical education department within the school system and that 45 now are enrolled in this program.

She said the nursing staff assists in a dental program in the distribution of dental cards to all elementary pupils.

Among other services performed by the staff during 1973-74 were Mantoux testing for all school employees, 287 measles immunizations given last August and measles tests were given 39 female employees of child-bearing age.

She said the staff also will be assisting with the Mantoux testing and follow-up of eighth grade students.

MRS. BERGLAND said the staff is attempting to develop a plot program in strep throat culturing among students at Washington-Kosciusko School.

There are now two full-time and one half-time nurses employed in the program and Superintendent of Schools C. H. Hopf said he agreed that additional help was needed.

He said he would recommend that the part-time nurse, Mrs. Henry Maly, go on full-time duty and that if she does not desire such a schedule, another part-time nurse should be appointed.

The main report said, "There exists a relatively small group of juvenile offenders, whose danger to society is grossly disproportionate to their numbers."

The jury backed Arthur's proposal, which calls for a special program for violent youths starting with maximum-security imprisonment and gradually offering greater freedom and responsibility over a number of years.

Instead, jurors endorsed in spirit a proposal made three months ago by Judge Lindsay Arthur calling for a special, long-term treatment program for violent youths.

But jury foreman Ralph Brastad issued a one-man minority report criticizing "so-called progressive thinkers" and asserting that publicity resulting from adult prosecutions of youths would discourage crime.

Grand jury reports on youth justice

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — The Hennepin County Grand Jury Monday released a study on juvenile justice that was four months in the making, but the jury's foreman disagreed with the final recommendations.

The jury recommended maximum-security treatment for violent youths, but not in adult prisons. All but two of the 23 members opposed police proposals that such youths automatically be tried in adult court.

WSHS groups ask trip O.K.

Authorization for three Winona Senior High School organizations to travel was asked Monday night of the district school board.

The requests were received from the Senior High School band for a concert trip to Memphis, Tenn.; the Spanish Club for a trip to Mexico and the French Club for a tour of Toronto, Quebec City and Ottawa, Canada.

THE BOARD deferred action on the requests until next Monday night's regular meeting.

Band director Robert W. Andrus told the board that the proposed Memphis concert tour calls for departure from Winona March 31 and a return the morning of April 5, with students expected to be in classes on that day.

Funds for the trip have been earned by band members and the Band Parents Association from projects conducted throughout the current school year.

The band, he said, was requesting a contribution by the school district of $350 toward the Memphis trip.

ANDRUS SAID that band members and chaperones would be housed by a national motel chain en route and in Memphis at special rate.

Band parents would serve as chaperones and the band would play three concerts at Memphis schools as well as participate in sight-seeing tours.

Bernard Baratto, chairman of the senior high school foreign language department, requested that permission be granted the Spanish Club for annual trip to Mexico April 17 to May 1.

Baratto said it has been estimated that 36 students and chaperones would make the trip and the approximate cost to each student would be $25.

CLUB MEMBERS would travel by Greyhound bus to the Mexican border where they would board a Mexican bus for the Mexican segment of the trip.

Participants would spend about a day and a half in Saltillo, Mexico and then be based at Mexico City for the remainder of their stay.

He said that the club, through various projects, has raised about $4,000 which will cover the major portion of the expenses.

Dwight Smith, a French instructor at Winona Senior High School, presented a tentative itinerary for the Canada trip April 6 to 13.

HE SAID the cost of transportation, lodging and tours — but excluding meals — has been estimated at about $130 a student.

The French Club, Smith said, will be able to pay about $50 of each student's expenses.

He estimated the total cost to each student, less the French Club's contribution, would be about $120.

Pollution halts operations at 2 pump stations

FRIDLEY, Minn. (AP) — The St. Paul and Minneapolis water pumping stations on the Mississippi River were shut down Monday when a streak of what appeared to be raw sewage and oil was discovered on the river.

The Minneapolis Water Treatment plant at Fridley stopped processing water at 9:15 a.m. and the St. Paul city pumping station three miles up river closed down about 8:40 a.m.

The Minnesota Pollution Control Agency (PCA) was informed by an observer of the river pollution and notified the two city pumping stations. Both immediately stopped taking in water from the river.

A spokesman said the pollution was heaviest at the point of water intake at the Minneapolis plant.

PCA personnel and persons from the water departments of both cities began an immediate search for the source of pollution.

Length of the shutdown hasn't been determined, but officials said it is of no immediate concern because a large supply of water for the city's system is held in the chain of lakes north of the city.

Your horoscope — Jeane Dixon

For WEDNESDAY, March 6
Your birthday today! Your year starts reasonably enough, much going for you, with indications of staying in the same old comfortable ways of habit and routine but it will not work out that way. Midyear brings dangers, challenges for special efforts and if you do not develop new tactics, some definite obstacles appear. Today's natives are impressionable, have an affinity for family or group life which attracts steady relationships.

Aries (March 21-April 19): Competition increases. Finances with friends, relatives is very much needed. Problem-solving among local circles thrives; make the effort.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Concern over family, property, possessions goes on, spurs you to take some belated steps to simplify the situation. Strangers are apt to be critical.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Make the rounds early! There is a story you need to hear and get a second version while it is fresh. Asking questions is the least productive approach.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): A mixed sort of day, some contacts are very profitable, others lose a bit. Confidential advisors are to be shielded from publicity as almost any cut is very profitable.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): You have a wide range of choice about what to do. Whatever you decide, it is likely to be your own singlehanded effort. Expect no relief or immediate help.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You have reason to abstain from criticism, as almost any comment you make now is taken for more than you intend. Let other people do the talking.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): If you have a good idea, put it to use immediately. Asking questions merely sets off many rounds of discussion, during which very little gets done.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Despite some uphill going, business deals mature nicely today. Bring home some tangible evidence of your mood and degree of prosperity.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Now is the time to take a long look at the protection and well-being of those you cherish. There may be something you should do about them.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): All the variables except financial rearrangement are open for adjustment. Get off to a running start and stay on the ball for a day of steady effort.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You've gotten to the point of feeling that you need little advice — at precisely the point where it would do the most good if you will listen.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Anything will do for an excuse, it's your responsibility to ignore provocation or teasing. There are far more important activities than squabbling.

Dad thinks prostitute should teach sex to son

DEAR ABBY: My husband insists that because boys will be boys, every boy should have his first sexual experience with a prostitute. He has several reasons; She can teach him about sex, there are no repercussions from the encounter, and it's preferable to learning with some Mama's girl in the back seat of a car.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

I didn't know whether to laugh or hit him but on recovering, I informed him that the boy could wind up with V.D. and as for learning about sex in a house of prostitution, that was tantamount to learning about good food in the town sewer.

I also asked him if he thought that when our daughters reach their late teens, they should go to a male prostitute, to learn all about sex, 'cause "girls will be girls" just as boys will be boys. He didn't think that was funny, and said to ask Abby. So I'm asking you.

DEAR M.C.: If prostitutes offer educational courses for inexperienced boys, it's news to me. Perhaps your husband knows some who do. (Is he a graduate?) And what if a student develops such a ferocious loyalty to his "alma mater" that he keeps going back for graduate courses?

I'm on your side, Mother. And I'll bet the prostitutes are, too.

DEAR ABBY: I am nearly 90 years old and have a question which I hope you can answer for me as it has troubled me for a long time.

A relative of mine has the one and only picture of my dear departed mother and her first child—my older sister, who is also now dead. I know that it is possible to have pictures copied. I imagine they simply take a picture of the original, which should do no damage to the original.

My problem is that this relative refuses to let that original picture out of her sight. She is now convinced that it will do the original no harm to have a picture taken of it, but is there any place where this can be done while a person waits? She will not hear of leaving it overnight anywhere. She lives in Chicago. Thank you.

SIGN ME "OLD"

DEAR OLD: There ought to be a photographic studio in Chicago that would produce a copy of the original while you and your relative wait. Ask around.

DEAR ABBY: Here's how I have succeeded in getting my name off "junk" mailing lists: I simply cross off my name and address, and write, "REFUSED—RETURN TO SENDER" on the envelope. Then I drop it in a mailbox.

It costs the company money to receive this piece of mail back, so they seem eager to drop my name from their list. Of course, you must refuse the mail without opening the envelope, but I've gotten off numerous lists this way.

MRS. C. B., LOMITA, CALIF.

DEAR MRS. B.: Thanks for the tip. Some of those folks who impose their junk mail on people are going to hate us!

Rochester group to give concert at Winona State

The Winona State College Music Department will host the Rochester Community College Choir and Orchestra in concert Thursday at 8:15 p.m. in the Performing Arts Center Theater.

Under the direction of Willard C. Johnson, the 145-member choir and orchestra will present a concert of sacred and secular music. The major work to be offered is Handel's "Dettingen Te Deum." The Te Deum, an ancient canticle of the church, written about 400 A.D., was traditionally used as the climax of a service of nocturns or matins as well as in a service of thanksgiving. The "Dettingen Te Deum" was composed by Handel in 1743 to celebrate the English victory in the battle of Dettingen.

The Te Deum is divided into three sections: the praise of the Trinity, the praise of Christ and His Passion and the series of verses and responses. Also to be included in the program are highlights from the musical, "Godspell." The public is invited.

Warrior rebounding puts clamps on Auggies

By STAN SCHMIDT
Daily News Sports Editor

Winona State defeated Augsburg 88-82 before an estimated 1,500 Memorial Hall fans Monday night to earn a spot opposite St. Thomas in the District 13 NAIA playoff championship game.

But the real score of the game was 87-82, also in favor of the Warriors, who now have won 31 straight at home.

The 57-32 margin was the difference in rebounding, a difference that took away Augsburg's fast break almost completely. Gus Johnson, as usual, led the carom department with 21, but Roscoe Young and Werner Giesen also had 10 apiece and Paul Sir contributed eight.

"We were outclassed on the boards," coach Erv Inniger admitted after the Auggies finished the season with a 16-10 record. "There's no doubt about it."

"We concentrated on rebounding," added coach Les Wohlke, whose Warriors (18-5) will meet St. Thomas Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at Hamline University for the district crown. "We knew we had to eliminate their fast break and we knew that Augsburg was very aggressive and scrappy, so we had to have three or four players going to the boards to get the second and third shots."

Four times in the first half, the Warriors spurred to seven-point leads and each time Augsburg bounced back to tie the score, the last time at 27-all with 6:28 left. Sir scored on a jumper and Jeff Crouse added a fast break layup, however, to put WSC ahead for good.

The Warriors took a 45-35 edge (28-15 under the boards) into the locker room, and then slowly increased the margin until they held a 77-58 advantage with six minutes left in the game.

But the Auggies rallied with 10 straight points before Sir's baseline jumper, some judicious use of the clock and eight WSC free throws held them off.

Free throws, in fact, provided the final difference. Three Auggies — Ray Hamilton, Jeff Dahl and Bart Davidson — fouled out as Augsburg was whistled for 28 fouls and the Warriors hit 24-39 free throws.

"What do we have to do to win by 15?" moaned Wohlke after the 19-point lead evaporated. "That just seems to be our style this year."

"We've done that so many times I just know we're going to win. And as long as it goes in the win column I guess I can put up with it."

Johnson, whose 24 points led all scorers, put it more confidently.

"We knew we had the game won," he said. "We tried to blow 'em out, we started to go one-on-one and we made some mistakes—but I wasn't worried about winning the game."

"We've always been in every game," added Inniger. "Usually we come out at the first of the second half and start our rally. Tonight we waited too long."

"We were really tight," explained Inniger of the substitution tactics which saw him shuffle 11 players in an out all night. "I honestly don't know why. But I thought if I shuffled 'em in and out, somebody might get loose."

Young and Johnson made us shoot a little higher, that had something to do with it, and they shoved us out a little further away from the basket than we wanted to be."

"You've got to compliment Winona, they're really a fine ball club. They've got Young and Johnson, but you don't want to underestimate the other three, either."

O' attacks reports of his decline

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer

Oscar Robertson attacked reports of his decline verbally and statistically.

The big guard for Milwaukee had just played 40 minutes in the Bucks' sixth game in six nights, a 109-103 National Basketball Association decision over the Kansas City-Omaha Kings Monday night, and he felt the books could be definitively closed on two oracles: the team's and his own.

The Bucks, decimated all season by injuries, posted a 4-2 record during the six-game stretch by winning their last three. Their endurance has been tested and they have survived and now lead second-place Chicago in the Midwest Division by five games.

The 35-year-old Robertson, sidelined for parts of the season because of a back injury, survived the six-game marathon and the skeptics, who said his brilliant NBA career was over.

Sunday night he passed off for 17 assists and scored 13 points of his own in 50 minutes of playing time, leading Milwaukee to an overtime victory over Houston.

Monday night he played 40 minutes and scored 20 points to help the Bucks beat the Kings.

Robertson's backcourt mate, Lucius Allen, paced the Bucks in the last 5-13 with eight points and two steals.

St. Thomas rips Gustavus 77-54

ST. PAUL, Minn. — St. Thomas romped to a 77-54 triumph over Gustavus Adolphus here at Hamline University Monday night to earn another shot at defending District 13 NAIA champion Winona State.

Winona, in the other district semi-final game Monday, stopped Augsburg 88-82.

St. Thomas and Winona will square off for the third straight year in Wednesday's championship game, scheduled for a 7:30 p.m. start, also at Hamline.

Last year, WSC won 74-70 to win a berth in the NAIA championships in Kansas City, Mo. Two years ago, St. Thomas won a 66-65 double overtime verdict.

In 1971 the two met in the district semi-finals, St. Thomas winning 74-63.

St. Thomas, nationally ranked according to the latest NAIA poll, boosted its record to 24-3 and stretched its winning streak to eight in a row as 7-foot-4 Bob Rosier led all scorers with 25 points to run his career scoring total to 2,057.

Terry Mikan and Bill McKee also had 18 and 17 for the Toms, who built up a 40-26 halftime lead that was never seriously threatened in the second half.

Rosier also grabbed 11 rebounds as St. Thomas held a 47-40 edge under the boards.

Dennis Wentworth scored 18 points and pulled down 13 rebounds to pace Gustavus, which also got 14 points from Bill Caferty.

St. Thomas hit 34-67 from the field, while Gustavus canned 21-77.

Crouse may be ruled ineligible

Jeff Crouse, a starting guard for Winona State's basketball team, may be academically ineligible for Wednesday's District 13 NAIA playoff game with St. Thomas.

Crouse, a junior from El Paso, Tex., who transferred here from Lakewood Junior College, failed to pass an anatomy class in the winter quarter. Spring quarter starts Wednesday.

WSC and NAIA officials were to get together today to determine his eligibility.

Badgers rap Hawkeyes

IOWA CITY, Iowa (UPI) — Wisconsin continued its late season surge Monday night in an easy 74-53 victory over Iowa, its second Big Ten win in three days and third in its last four starts.

The win assured Wisconsin a 500 finish in the Big Ten as the Badgers — whose final game is Saturday at Northwestern — boosted their record to 7-6 in league play and 15-8 overall.

What may have been more important for the future, Wisconsin won its second straight conference victory away from home. Not bad considering Wisconsin the last two seasons had failed to win on the road in conference action.

Wisconsin, led by center Kim Hughes and guard Gary Anderson who both had 18 points, led 41-34 at the half after outscoring Iowa heavily in the latter part of the first half.

The Badgers, shooting 51 per cent for the game to 36 per cent for Iowa, in the second half extended their lead to 18 points in an easy win.

The victory was about as easy as the Badgers win against Iowa in Madison last month, 113-87. A win Saturday at Northwestern would give Wisconsin three-

Big Ten victories in three Big Ten games in the final week of action. It started last Saturday.

Iowa, now 7-16 overall and 4-9 in Big Ten play, broke a school record for number of games lost in a season. The Hawkeyes were led by Candy LaPrince with 16 points.

Griffith says no to Oliva's $$ demands

United Press International
One year later, the value of the designated hitter remains open to hot dispute.

And, naturally, the man who is behind the latest dispute is Calvin Griffith, president of the Minnesota Twins, who just a few days ago was involved in another controversy concerning arbitration.

Tony Oliva, who thought he had made a healthy contribution to Minnesota last year when he batted .291 with a club-leading 92 RBI's as a designated hitter, learned Monday that his boss had a different perspective of his job.

"The designated hitter is something new, we have only had it one year," Griffith said in explaining his refusal to give Oliva the same $91,000 salary he received last year. Griffith is offering $84,000.

"No one knows what designated hitters are worth," Griffith continued, "but I believe they are part-time players and should be paid accordingly."

Oliva countered: "I believe I had a good year last season and deserve at least as much as I made then. Other designated hitters like Orlando Cepeda and Deron Johnson received raises. All I want is the same."

Griffith, to strengthen his case, also pointed out that he was informed by team doctors that carilage and torn ligament on Oliva's right knee will never permit him to play the outfield again.

For Philadelphia Phillies Manager Danny Ozark, when it comes to the designated hitter, he can take it or leave it. In fact, he said Monday he will allow American League managers to use designated hitters in exhibition games at their parks, but for himself, he'll leave it.

NL President Chub Feeney is allowing individual clubs to rule for themselves whether to allow AL rivals to use designated hitters in inter-league exhibitions.

"We won't use it ourselves," Ozark said. "It will put us at a slight disadvantage in some games, but these games aren't that important. They aren't as important as getting my pitchers some at-bats before the regular season starts."

Most teams are at full strength in preparation for the start of the exhibition season Thursday, with a few more stragglers arriving Monday. Leftfielder Gary Matthews, the National League Rookie of the Year in 1973, signed his contract with San Francisco for an estimated $35,000—a boost of about $18,000... All-Star center-fielder Amos Otis reported to the Kansas City Royals after being delayed at home with personal matters and he looked extra sharp with his line-drive hitting... Joe Morgan, given permission to report late, took part in his first workout with the Cincinnati Reds and he predicted he would have a better season than in 1973, when he batted .290.

Walton, Wilkes UPI All-American

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two-time Player of the Year Bill Walton of UCLA was joined by frontcourt teammate Keith Wilkes as the Bruins placed two men on the 1973-74 United Press International All-American major college basketball team.

The two UCLA seniors were joined on the first team by juniors David Thompson of North Carolina State and John Shumate of Notre Dame and senior Marvin Barnes of Providence.

The 6-foot-11 Walton made the first team for the third successive year, a feat matched by only six other players in the 26-year history of the UPI teams, the last being Calvin Murphy with Niagara and Pete Maravich with LSU in 1968-70.

The 6-4 Thompson is also a repeater from last year's team, while Wilkes, 6-7, Shumate, 6-9, and Barnes, 6-9, are on the first team for the first time.

In the balloting by 241 sports writers and sportsmen from across the nation, Walton

Area athletes are honored

Eight area high school athletes have been chosen to appear in the 1973-74 Prep All-America Football Yearbook, a nationwide publication to be released in June by the authors of "Coach & Athlete" magazine.

Each of the players selected was nominated last fall by football coaches and athletic directors from the area, and they will now be involved in competition for further recognition along with hundreds of other prep athletes from all around the country.

Selected from the Daily News circulation area were Rob Link, Joe Graf and Greg Moe from District 1 One playoff champion Caledonia, Gary Servais from Lewiston, Jim Miller from Rushford, Tony Von Arx from La Crescent, Steve Olson from Peterson, and the only player picked from the Wisconsin area, Gerard Peller of Arcadia.

Selections were based on each nominee's athletic ability as evidenced by career records, as well as his sportsmanship, leadership, and service to his team and community.

WHS, Cotter begin post-season play tonight, tomorrow

Ramblers favored to win opener again

By BRUCE CLOWAY
Daily News Sports Writer

Already a step closer to earning a berth in the Minnesota Independent State High School Basketball Tournament than it was at this time a year ago, Cotter High will be out to dispose of New Ulm Martin Luther Academy for the third straight year when the Region Five Tournament resumes in Mankato Wednesday night.

The Ramblers, who earned a bye in the first round of the tourney on the basis of their regular season record (11-9), whipped Martin Luther 72-62 in their first game of the tourney in 1972 and 67-52 last year.

"Frankly, it shouldn't be too much trouble," admitted a normally noncommittal Coach John Nett in reference to Wednesday's 7 p.m. contest slated for DeSmet Hall at Loyola High School. "But this is another year, and you can never tell what might happen in a tournament game."

But whoever wins Wednesday night's first game, will most likely have to contend with Mankato Loyola in Friday's region championship game.

Loyola, which boasts a 17-5 record, will take on New Ulm Cathedral in an 8:30 p.m. game Wednesday in Highland Arena on the upper campus of Mankato State College. Owatonna Marian knocked off Cathedral 62-41 in the opening round of the tourney Monday night.

Martin Luther owns a 10-12 record compared with the 13-10 and 16-7 marks it brought into the tournament in the past two years, and the Rams finished no better than sixth in the eight-team Red Rock Conference.

"I was very optimistic at the beginning of the season," recalled Harold Kaiser, the academy's veteran coach. "But things haven't worked out quite as well as I expected."

"This is the third year we've been involved in the region playoffs, and we've drawn Cotter for our first opponent all three times. We know they had a pretty good year and will be mighty tough to beat."

Kaiser had only one returning regular to work with this season, 5-11 senior Jeff Belke, but he failed to average in double figures.

The rest of the Rams' lineup will consist of Larry Schultz, a 6-3 senior, at center, Lee Boerneke, a 6-9 senior, at the forward spot opposite Belke, and Jay Gatzlaff, a 5-10 senior, and Dave Huebner, a 5-11 junior, at the guards.

Schultz averaged 11.3 points per game during the regular season, and Boerneke scored at a 10.4 clip.

Cotter lost its last three games of the regular season, but that shouldn't affect the Ramblers' performance last year they entered the tourney with a seven-game losing streak.

Coach Nett indicated his lineup will remain the same as it has been ever since Tom Dreas returned to action in mid-December. Bob Browne, a 6-0 junior, and Joe Nett, a 6-1 sophomore, will be the forwards. Dreas, a 6-3 senior, will be the center, and Bob Smith, a 6-0 junior, and Terry Fleming, a 5-11 junior, will be the guards.

Smith and Browne finished sixth and ninth respectively in the Central Catholic Conference scoring race, but Browne leads his cohort in overall scoring with 285 points, one more than Smith.

Browne's shooting accuracy tapered off a bit towards the end of the regular season and he now is hitting on only 36.8 percent of his field goal attempts, while Smith is hitting 42.4 percent from the floor. Nett, on the other hand, who has scored just 139 points, hit on 53.1 percent of his shots.

Nett is the leading rebounder on the team with 125, including 73 off the defensive boards, Browne has 106 and Dreas has 104.

Hawks remember 4-overtime defeat

By STAN SCHMIDT
Daily News Sports Editor

Remember that Jan. 25 basketball game that Winona High lost to Mankato West in four overtimes? Well, if you don't, Coach Dan McGee and his Winhawks surely do.

That disheartening 69-67 defeat saw the Hawks blow a fourth-quarter lead and the Saints spurt to victory in the four extra periods.

Tonight the two Big Nine Conference rivals meet again on Rochester Mayo High School's neutral court in one of two playoff games to decide berths in the Class AA, Region A tournament to be held later this week.

Mankato East battles Faribault at Owatonna in the other playoff game. Both contests are scheduled for 8 o'clock starts.

"Our kids should remember that four overtime game," McGee points out, "but this game means more and that's the angle I'm pushing. This is another season for us. We've got to forget what's happened in the past so we can at least salvage a respectable season by doing well in the tournament."

The Winhawks compiled 5-9 Big Nine and 6-11 overall records during the regular season; the Scarlets of coach Gordy Hakes were 4-10 and 6-12.

But Winona's season has been even more frustrating than the records indicate: six games lost at the free throw line, seven games—including six in a row—lost after leading in the fourth quarter; four games lost in eight overtime periods.

"I hope that the experience we've gained in the close games will help us in the playoffs," McGee adds. "We should be going into this game with a lot of confidence."

"I think a reason for a lot of the fouls we've had is because we sometimes have been out of position. We have to eliminate those fouls tonight."

"We played a zone against Mankato East Saturday (the Hawks lost 66-62) with the idea of keeping out of foul trouble. But we still got in trouble early. If we can improve our rebounding, which has let down the last two or three games, and eliminate some of those fouls, we can beat any team in this league."

Rebounding will definitely be a problem tonight. Mankato West starts a front line that includes 6-5 junior Bill Thompson, 6-4 junior Jim Northenscald and 6-5 sophomore Greg Briggs. Winona counters with three seniors: 6-3 Steve Rompa, 6-3 John Mueller and 6-2 Steve Holan.

The Cougars' offense obviously revolves around Thompson and Northenscald, who are averaging around 16 points a game.

"They try to get the ball to Thompson, who's an excellent outside shot," McGee explains, "or to Northenscald, who's so big, he just kinda rams it in. Briggs gets a lot of garbage points on rebounds and their two guards (Jay Leland and Jim Elke) just feed the big men."

"We have to force their guards to shoot more from the outside; our defense will be geared to do that. What it all amounts to is that we have to get a complete game together."

The winner of the WHS-MW game opens the Class AA, Region A tournament at Carleton College in Northfield Friday, followed by the Albert Lea-Rochester John Marshall game.

Austin and Red Wing clash Friday at St. Olaf College in Northfield, followed by a game which pits the winner of the Faribault-Mankato East contest.

The Region A semi-finals are scheduled at Rochester's Mayo Civic Auditorium March 13. The finals are March 15, also at Mayo Civic.

Priest tells AIM jury of gunfire

By JOHN LUNDQUIST
 ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—A priest caught in the center of the Wounded Knee, S.D., confrontation says he heard a few bursts of automatic fire the second night of the 71-day siege.

The Rev. Paul Manhart, pastor of Sacred Heart Catholic Church, said he and some other local residents gathered in one of the homes were ordered to lie on the floor to minimize risk. He said it apparently was an exchange between Indian and government forces.

Father Manhart testified Monday for a second day and was due back on the stand to finish examination by government and prosecution lawyers in the trial of two leaders of the American Indian Movement (AIM).

Dennis Banks, 41, St. Paul, and Russell Means, 34, Porcupine, S.D., are on trial in U.S. District Court. They are accused on burglary, theft, assault, firearms violations and conspiracy in the occupation that began Feb. 27, 1973.

The 47-year-old priest said he was in the group of about a dozen local residents at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clive Gildersleeve. It was one of several homes militants took over across from the Wounded Knee Trading Post. The government referred to the residents as "hostages" during the first few days.

Most of those at the home were elderly, and one, an 82-year-old man with a heart condition, was brought out within a few days for treatment. Father Manhart went with him — one of several pastoral errands he made — and returned to the village through government and Indian roadblocks.

The priest said the residents could have left the next day but they chose to remain, most to preserve their property.

As for himself, Father Manhart said he felt a double duty.

"Half the people at Wounded Knee were Catholic," he told the jury. "I was to be with them until some resolution of this confusion might come. Secondly, I was well aware we were serving as a sort of living buffer against gunfire that might come into the village from the south."

Indians manning roadblocks and trenches were opposed by U.S. marshals and FBI agents.

Tensions rose between government and Indian forces in the second week, when negotiations were broken off and two Indians were wounded in an early evening gunfire exchange March 7. Next day, the Gildersleeves with aid of relatives hauled away what property they could and left the area.

Father Manhart and others also left. He'd spent nights sleeping on the kitchen floor, he said.

The priest said he went out of the besieged village several times during his stay. He visited the Holy Rosary Mission some 20 miles away and arranged for some local residents to meet with Tribal President Richard Wilson.

And when a few days after his church was taken over, he went back to get his car but found the battery missing. He arranged to get it towed to Rushville, Neb., for servicing.

Of oil from Canada

Pipeline will cut exports

WASHINGTON, Minn. (AP)—Canadian fuel exports to the United States will be cut by 25 per cent when a proposed Canadian oil pipeline on the West Coast is completed, participants at a Washington conference agreed Monday.

Rep. Bob Bergland, D-Minn., organized the meeting among representatives of six Upper Midwest states highly dependent on Canadian crude—Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Michigan and Wisconsin. He said the pipeline could be operational by 1975.

In the interests of energy sufficiency, Canada plans to build a pipeline from Sarnia, Ont., to Montreal as part of a coast-to-coast pipeline network.

Much of Canada's western oil production now is exported to the United States with eastern provinces relying on imported crude from overseas.

An American Petroleum Institute official told the meeting that Minnesota refineries are 91 per cent dependent on imported Canadian crude.

R.A. Blackburn, Canadian Embassy official, told the group that Canada expects to put about 250,000 barrels of crude a day through the proposed 500,000-barrel capacity pipeline as soon as it is completed.

That 250,000 barrels is about one-fourth of Canada's exports to the United States. Thus, the export is likely to be reduced by that amount.

William Simon, federal energy administrator, told the group he is "extremely optimistic" that the reduction can be worked out in an "orderly way" to coincide with increased American production.

Sen. Hubert Humphrey called on both the United States and Canada to work together to make sure the transition does not occur too abruptly.

Bergland, at the request of meeting participants, said he would set up a task force to formulate a regional policy on Canadian oil imports.
